PEACE MOVE BEATEN IN COMMONS, 341-4

LONDON, Dec. 5 (AP)—A silent, disapproving House of Commons rejected by an overwhelming vote of 341 to 4 a motion by three members of the Independent Labor Party today that Britain state her war aims and seek peace immediately, "if necessary in a spirit of compromise," because, they said "there is no certainty of a great military victory."

The Independent Labor Party is not to be confused with the National Labor Party, which is represented in the government. The Independent Labor Party has only four members in Commons—Editor's Note.

The vote followed quickly the presentation of the motion by John McGovern, Campbell Stephen and James Maxton, all from Glasgow.

Supporting the trio, Samuel Silverman, Liverpool Laborite, declared the moment defined by Prime Minister Churchill as the time for the statement of peace aims—"When we have convinced the world of our capacity to survive"—had now arrived.

The authors of the motion are members of the Extreme Leftist Wing of Britain's labor movement.

The four members voting for the motion were Maxton, Dr. Alfred Salter, Laborite; William Gallacher, the only Communist member of Parliament, and David Kirkwood, another Laborite. McGovern and Stephen were named tellers, hence could not vote.

FEARS NAZI BOMBINGS

Declaring that peace efforts are "not discreditable," McGovern asserted:

"If the war goes on—as it is likely to do if the forces in operation today have their way without any attempt to end it—until February of next year, I expect that there will be intensive bombing from this country, and if that is so the large reserves which Germany has been piling up will be utilized for the purpose of subjecting every industrial city in this country to a Coventry raid." Prime Minister Churchill was absent as McGovern, Maxton and Stephen called for "restoration of freedom in each country, the establishment of a new German order which would mean the end of German, British and other imperialism and provide a decent home and standard of life for each family in every country of the world."

"No opportunity should be lost to end the war," contended McGovern.

RAF RAIDS RHINELAND 12 HOURS

LONDON, Dec. 5 (AP)—The longest RAF assault on record—nearly 12 hours of blasting at Dueseldorf and her industrial environs in Germany's vitay Rhineland—was reported today by the air ministry.

While one formation sowed bombs on the German city last night, another lashed at Italy's principal northern center of war industry, Turin. "Selected" targets were hit there, the ministry said. Bomber crews flew through what one pilot called "absolutely filthy" weather to make the attack.

The main objectives were railway yards in the Darendorf district, north of Dueseldorf; the big Mannesmann Rohrenwerke armament works, quays and dockyards along the Rhine and the Dueseldorf coal and gas plants.

Pilots dropped incendiary and high explosive bombs which started 15 to 20 fires, it reported.

The news service said Turin's armament works underwent a "formidable assault" which was a "further and impressive step in our double attack on Italy from our bases in this country and in the Mediterranean."

The chief objective was the Royal Arsenal, it was said, and "much was done to reduce its output of guns, gun carriages, shell cases and tanks."

British planes were over the arsenal nearly two hours, the news service said. One pilot reported a building was completely on fire.

Two sticks of bombs burst directly on the main buildings of the Fiat works, where airplane engines are made.

British Will Move Children to Eire

LONDON, Dec. 5 (INS)—Agreement has been reached between the governments of Eire and Britain for evacuation of English mothers and children to Ireland in a movement which may eventually embrace several thousand, it was announced today.

The agreement, however, does not envisage any large-scale evacuation, since it is limited to those who are able to make arrangements to stay with relatives or friends in Eire for the duration of the war.

The British Government, said the announcement, will provide travel vouchers for free transportation, and a small billeting allowance.

GREEKS REPORTED IN PORTO EDDA

ATHENS, Dec. 5 (INS)—Argirocastro, key to all southern Albania, and Santi Quaranta (Porto Edda), vital base on the sea, are both now virtually in Greek hands, according to reliable information in Athens tonight.

Italian troops are believed to have evacuated both towns and swiftly-moving advance Greek patrols were reported entering the outskirts. Official military bulletins, however, did not go beyond saying that Argirocastro is entirely encircled and Santi Quaranta besieged.

Pressure by the Greek armies on all fronts increased and Italian resistance weakened to a point where some military experts in Athens no longer exclude the possibility of a total Italian collapse in Albania.

Reports from Lisbon today revealed that Queen Wilhelmina (here) of Holland is now en route to New York. It was stated the Queen would arrive today in Lisbon and then fly to the United States aboard a transatlantic Clipper.

London reports, however, vigorously deny that the queen will leave England.

Cold Snap Speeds Christmas Ship Gifts

By JAMES DOOLING

So you thought it was cold? You were coming out of a warm bed, in a warm house, with a warm, nourishing meal inside you.

Typical of the true British spirit, this London family, despite the fact that they are homeless and in need, smilingly face the uncertain future. They were bombed out of their home by Nazi raiders . . . and like thousands of others, need the clothing the Christmas Ship will bring them.

You had your hat, overcoat, gloves, and maybe a woolen muffler, too. And you said to everyone you met and they replied in like vein:

"Pretty cold, eh? Coldest day for the date since 1903, but it's warmer now with the snow."

And you both hoped there wouldn't be many more days like it this winter. And so did everybody.

But you weren't rushing out of your house in the middle of the night to dive down into some evil-smelling shelter, where the moisture oozed from the walls and that damp, penetrating cold got into your marrow.

You didn't have to crouch, shivering in the flimsy garments you were able to throw over yourself in your flight. Crouch and wait. Hoping the Nazis wouldn't make a direct hit, as they did when they buried babies and mothers in the debris of a London convent 43 hours ago.

MANY HOMES GONE

Hoping when it was all over you wouldn't find the home you left was gone, with everything in it, a mass of broken plaster and scattered stones and smoking ruins.

That hasn't happened to you. But you thought it was cold, and it was. Comparatively cold, but you and all the rest of us still were warm.

On the other side of this Atlantic Ocean there are thousands who know it is to be really cold. To be always cold.

To never quite have enough to eat to feed the bloodstream that should warm the body, to never have quite enough clothing to cover the body from that damp, penetrating chill of England's winter.

VIVID REMINDER

Maybe it was a good thing to have a record cold day come in the middle of this campaign to fill A CHRISTMAS SHIP FOR ENGLAND with winter shoes and winter garments for the suffering civilians abroad.

A day like this brings home more vividly to everyone why the Christmas Ship appeal was made.

Warm new woollens for the babies who escaped the horror of

Baby Girl For Babs Carroll

RUMFORD, Me., Dec. 5—A baby daughter has been born to Barbara (Babs) Carroll—now Mrs. Armand LaCroix—central figure in the sensational Carroll-Dwyer murder case.

The child was born yesterday at Barbara's Rumford home.

Former Deputy Sheriff Francis M. Carroll, Barbara's father, and Paul Dwyer, her schoolboy sweetheart, are both serving life sentences for the murder of Dr. James Littlefield of South Paris.

The young mother was married—at the age of 19—on Dec. 15, 1939, to Armand LaCroix, 20, a Rumford shoe worker.

At the quiet ceremony, attended only by members of the family, she vowed she was going thenceforth to be known as a Maine housewife, rather than "the girl in the Carroll case."

At that time Paul Dwyer had just started his life term sentence in Thomaston State Prison after confessing to garrotting Dr. Littlefield. The body of the murdered man, with his wife, who had also been slain, was found in the rear luggage compartment of the doctor's car.

Paul confessed to driving the car to New Jersey from Maine after the crime had been committed.

Doctor Cancels Poor's Debts, Rich Must Pay

WOODSTOCK, Ill., Dec. 5 (AP)—Needy patients in debt to Dr. E. Thomas Brand won't feel embarrassed when meeting him on the street now.

The doctor cancelled their bills yesterday, notifying them in a newspaper advertisement:

"It is my Christmas donation to deserving humanity."

Dr. Brand figures the "donation" at $15,000. His gesture doesn't apply to his wealthy patients who haven't paid their bills.

"I'm not canceling their accounts," he said. "I want them to know they still owe me money."

BATTLE RAGES ON PARDON CHARGES

Massachusetts' biggest political battle in years broke into full action today over the demand for impeachment of Governor's Councilor Daniel H. Coakley, removal of two members of the State parole board and abolition of the board itself.

Latest events as the political guns roared were:

1—A statement by the Rev. Roland D. Sawyer of Ware, that Atty.-Gen. Robert F. Bushnell should look into Dist. Atty. Hugh A. Cregg's handling of a pardon case in Essex County.

2—Denunciation of the special legislative commission on pardons and paroles and its report by P. Emmett Gavin of Boston, parole board member, whose removal the investigating commission recommended.

CHARGES HURLED

3—A charge by Dist. Atty. Edmund R. Dewing of Norfolk and Plymouth counties that Rep. Sawyer is a "publicity seeking and politically-minded legislator."

These charges and counter-

charges served only as a smoke screen as the real battle lines were formed behind the scenes.

Coakley, charged with "misconduct and maladministration" by the special commission, kept silent. So did Ralph Robart, chairman of the parole board, whose removal was recommended.

So did Dist. Atty. Cregg. P. Emmett Gavin, whose removal from the board was recommended, declared that members of the commission "have made a vicious and exhaustive search of hundreds of thousands of cases that Mr. Gavin has passed on but they could not find one instance of dishonesty on his part in his 25 years of service to the State."

"But they do not tell the public that. They do state that Mr. Gavin was arbitrary and haphazard and should be removed from the board."

GAVIN ISSUES DENIAL

"Because I voted with two other members of the board to release four or five upon whom I conscientiously believed were worthy and for whom Senators Madden and Carroll had intervened for their constituents, I am vilified for being under their domination."

"No mention is made, however, of the hundreds of cases in which these senators appealed for their constituents and were refused."

FILLING STATION BLAST INJURES 5

Five men were injured, two of them critically, today when Jack's Superservice Station at Massachusetts ave. and Albany st., Cambridge, blew up as a steam shovel apparently struck off a spark which ignited gasoline fumes.

The concussion from the blast was felt in an area of nearly a mile, with windows shattered in many nearby buildings.

Several minor explosions followed the first one, which wrecked the filling station and started a fire to which all available Cambridge fire apparatus equipped with foamite were summoned.

THOSE INJURED

Injured in the blast and taken to Cambridge City Hospital were the following:

JACOB MICHELSON, 33, of Walnut ave., Roxbury, the station proprietor, first and second degree burns about the face.

FRED SIEVE, 18, of Massachusetts ave., Cambridge, station attendant, lacerations and a questionable skull fracture; name on the danger list.

JULIUS BAYER, 54, of Hutchins st., Dorchester, laborer on the construction work, lacerations, shock, internal injuries; name on the danger list.

RAPHAEL LEONE, 42, of Everett st., East Boston, another laborer; released from hospital after treatment for lacerations.

JOHN McFEE, 38, of Alpine st., Roxbury, a passer-by; lacerations and shock.

SHOVEL AT WORK

Work of excavating for construction of a new lubricatorium had begun yesterday at Michelson's station and the steam shovel, operated by Frank Newman, 35, of Hollis st., Cambridge, was down about 10 feet when the blast came.

Mrs. Michelson, wife of the proprietor, hurried to the scene when informed of the explosion. She became hysterical upon reaching the gas station and was near collapse.

Police had her driven to the hospital, where her husband had been taken.

Clearing Skies But Still Cold Due Here

Clearing weather tonight, with more, but not severe, cold, will follow the newest snowstorm which left from one to four inches of snow in Greater Boston and New England generally.

High winds at sea which whipped up great waves and took one life and a toll of several ships accompanied the snowstorm.

A welcome temperature rise sent the mercury up to 33 degrees by 9:30 today, however.

Tonight, according to the weather bureau, it will be fair with temperature readings in the lower 20's and with gentle to moderate southwest winds.

Heavy snow flurries accompanied the sharp temperature rise during the night, which saw the mercury jump from yesterday's mark of 15 degrees, lowest in five years for Boston.

This afternoon the weather bureau said that the snow fall would be about three inches more before it ceased, making a total of five to six inches in Greater Boston.

Although plows were busy through the night, highways soon became glare ice surfaces because of the hard-packed snow. Long before daylight, state highway sanding machines were ordered out, but numerous skidding accidents were reported.

AID CRAFT AT SEA

Meanwhile, Coast Guard vessels and privately-owned tugs fought the waves to aid craft disabled during the storm at sea.

The 521-ton freighter El Almirante, which grounded near the Cape Cod Canal en route to Boston from Texas, was pulled free early today and came to Boston. A U. S. Army dredge and the tugs Lana and Venus from Boston, assisted by Coast Guards of the Sandwich station, liberated the freighter.

During the operations, the Coast Guard cutter Argo received an emergency order to leave the Canal for Point Judith, R. I., where huge waves overwhelmed one barge and drove two others onto the rocks at Green Hill.

An East Providence man, tentatively identified by Point Judith Coast Guards as Henry Reynolds, 33, was lost as the barge which he was tending broke up 200 feet from shore. The tender of the second barge, Eugene Lopez, 42, of Providence, was taken off in a breeches buoy.

Roy Greenlaw, 36, of Rockport, Me., and his wife, Joan, 34, were rescued by Coast Guards of the Point Judith station just as the first barge sank. Founding waves had swept Greenlaw from his cabin and his wife was struggling in the water when help arrived.

REFUSES HELP

Coast Guards reported they made an effort to save Reynolds before his barge struck the rocks, but that he refused help in an effort to steer the vessel clear. When the barge broke apart, they were prevented by the heavy surf from reaching him.

The barge that sank was the Thomas H. O'Leary, carrying 1500 tons of anthracite coal to the Metropolitan Coal Co., Chelsea.

The other two barges were the Agnes Howard, carrying 1000 tons of anthracite to Hull, and the Catherine Howard with 1000 tons for Ft. Andrews. The Greenlaw couple were on the O'Leary.

While the Rhode Island tragedy was occurring, a group of tugs and barges sent distress signals from the tip of Long Island and the Coast Guard cutter Pontchartrain was sent to their assistance. One tug, the Edwin Duke, sank after it was taken in tow but all hands were saved.

Blinding snow flurries hampered the Coast Guard. The cutter Harriet Lane, proceeding toward Boston with the disabled Gloucester trawler Corinthian in tow, likewise was slowed by the storm.

The hard freeze and the following snow was blamed for sticking of the Chelsea North bridge last night, and today it remained stuck while vessels waited to pass through in both directions.

Nazis Confiscate Five Swedish Ships

BERLIN, Dec. 5 (AP)—A German prize court at Hamburg ordered confiscation today of five Swedish ships with their cargoes, seized by German forces in the Norwegian campaign while headed for British and French ports.

The cargoes were held to be contraband. The court identified the ships as the Brita, 1345 tons; Dahlia, 1077; Baltica, 1966; Edda, 6100, and Indus, 729 tons. Two English yachts seized in harbors of the Netherlands also were taken over by the Reich.

CHICAGO, Dec. 5 (AP)—"Sargo," a 1000-pound Hereford owned by Evelyn Asay, 19, of Mt. Carroll, Ill., sold at $3.30 a pound today as grand champion steer of the 41st International Livestock Exposition. The price was approximately two and one-half times as high as last year's winner brought.

The Firestone Tire and Rubber Co. was the successful bidder, paying $3098 for the well-groomed animal. The bidding started at $1, shot up to $2 in the first minute and then climbed to the sale price in 3 and 10-cent jumps.

Lone Cop Fires Shots to Nab 2

Three shots were fired by a Winthrop patrolman today during a free-for-all fight with three men who had fled as he investigated a drug store break.

One escaped, but the other two were subdued by Patrolman John Van Dalinda after they allegedly tried to break loose from his custody. Both were booked on charges of breaking and entering. At Winthrop police headquarters the men gave the names of John Curry, 26, alias George Emmerso, of Dwight st., South End, and Victor Bogaslowski, 27, of Rockland.

Death Takes Father of Babs Hutton

NEW YORK, Dec. 5 (AP)—Franklyn L. Hutton, broker and father of Barbara Hutton, Woolworth 5-and-10-cent store heiress, died today at Charleston, S. C., his attorneys announced here.

His daughter, the Countess Haugwitz-Reventlow, flew to Charleston from the West Coast recently because of Hutton's illness. Their relationship had been very close and several times she returned home from great distances to spend Christmas holidays with him.

He was in Paris for her elaborate wedding to the late Prince Alexis Mdivani and went to London to be with her at the time her romance was breaking up. It was reported he tried to effect a reconciliation, but his efforts failed and the couple was divorced in 1935, Barbara later marrying the Danish count.

The heiress and Count Haugwitz-Reventlow subsequently parted and their divorce is nearly final.

Hutton's first wife—and Barbara's mother—was Miss Edna Woolworth. She died in 1917 and Hutton nine years later had wed a Detroit divorcee, the former Irene Curley Bodde.

In March of last year, Hutton attempted to obtain a refund of $18,881.91 in 1933 New York income taxes, contending he had sold his apartment that year to his daughter for $1,000,000 and that he had no abode in the State until 1935. He lost the suit.

Rayburn's Reins To McCormack

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5—Congressman John W. McCormack, dean of the Massachusetts Democrats and majority leader in the House, today was appointed speaker pro tempore when Speaker Sam Rayburn announced he planned to take a rest.

Speaker Rayburn announced to the House session at its opening today that he probably would be away for some time.

McCormack's appointment to the temporary speakership was more or less expected in view of the talk in the Capitol that the Massachusetts member is next in line for the high spot.

For many years, McCormack has been serving on the powerful ways and means committee of the House, always considered a stepping stone to the speakership.

Both women were taken to Wilmington hospitals. Mrs. Wier was immediately taken to the operating room.

Saltonstall Makes Gain, Leads by 5082

Gov. Saltonstall picked up 28 recount votes in 21 Boston precincts today and 19 in eight outlying towns to increase his lead over Atty-Gen. Paul A. Dever to an apparently safe margin of 5082 in the governorship fight.

3 Judges to Sit On Citizenships

With 60,000 applications of citizenship now on file here, three federal judges today were assigned for Monday's sitting of the naturalization court.

Among the first to be considered are 200 aliens who have passed all tests and are waiting only to take the oath of allegiance.

The Saltonstall pickup in Boston brought his net gain in 104 of the 386 Boston precincts to a total of 91 votes.

Failure of Dever to score a hoped-for heavy gain in Boston doomed his recount battle to failure, most observers agreed.

More than three-quarters of the State's 1810 precincts had been retabulated today.

The new towns in which Saltonstall gains were reported included Lexington, Nahant, Orange, Russell, Tolland, West Springfield, Westminster and New Braintree. State Democratic Chairman William Burke has served notice he will carry an appeal to the Massachusetts Supreme Court in behalf of Dever on the issue of validity of several thousands of challenged ballots.

EVANSTON, Ill., Dec. 5 (AP)—Coincident with the seventh anniversary of prohibition repeal, the National Woman's Christian Temperance Union today issued a "score-sheet on liquor's seven years."

"The 'score-sheet' get forth: 'The repeal years have shown an extraordinary increase in the consumption of alcoholic beverages.

'Arrests for drunkenness have nearly doubled during the seven years.

'Deaths from alcoholism are 41 per cent greater than for the first seven years of prohibition.

'The annual average of traffic deaths has increased 80 per cent over 1919-1925.

'Since repeal the hard liquor trade alone has sold the equivalent of 39,570,370,740 shots of whisky and other alcoholic distillations.

'The liquor trade has taken in a gross of $21,503,048,400 while thousands of other industries serving the people with food, clothing and necessary products have lost a large part of this trade total.'

Curley Granted Delay by Court

Extension until Jan. 2 of execution of judgments against former Gov. James H. Curley and Dr. Joseph Santosuosso, ordered to pay a total of $71,048 to the city of Boston, was granted today by Judge Francis Good in Suffolk Superior Court.

Counsel for the former Governor and Dr. Santosuosso argued for an extension before Judge Good yesterday, following the recent decision by the Supreme Court which upheld the findings of Judge Frederick W. Fosdick.

Judge Fosdick at the superior Court trial ruled that Curley and Santosuosso illegally received money in settlement of the General Equipment Corp. case involving damages in connection with the Kenmore subway extension.

Yuletide Racketeers Menace to Shoppers

Christmas shoppers were warned today against street pedlars offering huge bargains and against unreliable and unestablished traders "seeking to skim some of the cream off the Christmas trade."

The Boston Better Business Bureau advised buying from dealers known to be reliable and established in the community rather than from "fly by night" who may vanish and leave the buyer without recourse.

Retail Food Costs Show New Decline

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5 (AP)—Retail cost of food in the nation's large cities had declined for the second consecutive month, the Bureau of Labor Statistics reported today.

A .03 per cent decrease was noted between mid-October and mid-November, following a reduction of 1 per cent in the previous month.

25 Facing Contempt in School Red Probe

NEW YORK, Dec. 5—Twenty-five present or former members of New York city's school system faced contempt proceedings today for allegedly refusing to testify before a legislative committee investigating subversive movements in public schools and colleges.

As the committee adjourned until next month after a three-day public hearing, it authorized its counsel to begin State Supreme Court proceedings against 23 teachers and two clerks, 21 of whom are employed at Brooklyn College.

Dr. Harry D. Gideonse, president of that institution, which has 14,000 students, testified that the Communist party "deliberately uses" colleges in the city as "sound- ing boards for its activities."

Gideonse's testimony followed that of two other witnesses who named nine Brooklyn College faculty members and three other teachers as active workers in the Communist party both on and off the campus. Ten of the 12 denied the charge.

PICKETED BY 30

The college head said that when he took office in July, 1939, he "was not going to be neutral about subversive activities." He added that his attitude evoked resentment on the part of some "radical students" and that last spring 300 students "picketed" his home by telephone and telegraph.

"Are you convinced that an organized effort was made to intimidate you?" asked Chief Committee Counsel Paul Windels.

"A most unsuccessful one, but certainly an organized one," replied Gideonse.

The witness said he was "eager to act" on any evidence uncovered by the committee that would stand up in court.

Kenneth A. Slocum, an attorney on Windels' staff, offered testimony that 88 members of the teachers' union were listed in certain membership books, which he examined under subpoena, with the initials "IWO" after their names. This he charged, represented the International Workers' Order.

EXPELLED AS TEACHER

When a hostile witness, Charles J. Hendley, president of the teachers' union, was on the stand, Windels forced the admission that Isidore Begun was, as recently as the fall of 1939, a member of the union's executive board.

"Begun was expelled by the Board of Education in 1933," Windels charged, "and cannot hold a position in the public school system, yet he represents the union as an executive member. Further, it may be noted, Begun is high in the ranks of the Communist Party. He is its director of propaganda and agitation and was once its candidate for Governor."

The move to take the 25 to court was viewed as a possible opening for general legal action. Before the session opened, Ordway Tead, president of the Board of Higher Education, was asked if there were any grounds on which teachers accused of Communism or of injecting Red doctrines into their courses could be suspended or removed. Tead pointed out that "nothing like suspension is contemplated at the present time because this proceeding is not a trial but a hearing. It is too early to determine whether a trial is possible."

LINKED TO REDS

Windels commented disclosures of Teachers' Union members in the ranks of the IWO were "just a tile in the mosaic, but showed the link between our school system and the Communist party."

Dr. Bella V. Dodd, legislative representative of the union, over the objection of the committee protested the contempt citation. She insisted the 24 refused to testify on advice of counsel.

When the session closed it was evident, however, the proceedings would be taken into court as soon after the holidays as possible.

Of the 88 teachers' union members accused of affiliation with the International Workers' Order, 37 teachers at the workers' school of the IWO, Philip Haberman, assistant to Windels, read the names of nine of this group into the record as "instructors in Marxism and Leninism at the workers' school."

The revelations are largely the result of long years of crusading by the Hearst newspapers to stamp Communism and all other subversive activities out of the public schools.

SPEAKING DATE CHANGED

GIFT SWINDLER IN TOILS

Once jailed for conspiracy to steal in connection with the so-called $500,000 Gift Family swindle in Middlesex County, blonde Miss Hazel Leland, 48, of Kilsyth rd., Brookline, was back in the toils of the law again today.

She was arrested by Boston detectives on warrants charging larceny of $1183 and $200 from Mrs. Eunice Blair of Batchelder st., Melrose.

She pleaded not guilty in Municipal Court and was held in $2000 for a hearing Dec. 12.

STOCK DEAL CHARGED

According to the complaint, Miss Leland obtained money from Mrs. Blair on a fraudulent promise to return her a 100 per cent profit on stock investments.

Finger-printed, photographed and placed in a police headquarters lineup, Miss Leland conspicuously lacked the prosperous appearance she had in the years when she allegedly spent $40,000 to $50,000 per annum on clothes, living expenses and "entertainment."

HAZEL LE LAND, 48

Today, Miss Leland was in obvious need of a new winter coat and her overshoes were worn and leaky.

SERVED 16 MONTHS

Her former period of prosperity ended when she and other alleged co-conspirators were arrested, tried and sentenced in the "Gift Family" get-rich-quick bubble.

She told questioners she served 16 months of an 18-month term in East Cambridge jail.

Victims of the Gift Family swindle were misled on the pretense that an unnamed multimillionaire "benefactor" was offering to share his wealth with deserving investors.

Middlesex County prosecutors claimed Miss Leland bought $100,000 worth of diamonds and "took a licking on stock deals totalling $123,000."

10 PLANE CRASH DEATH TOLL REACHES 8

CHICAGO, Dec. 5 (AP)—The death early today of two men brought to eight the number of persons killed in the crash of a United Air Lines plane near the Chicago Municipal Airport. Eight others were injured.

From the lips of survivors and an examination of the wreckage investigators sought an explanation for the accident which occurred when the 21-passenger mainliner, inbound from the East, plunged nose first into a vacant lot a scant 200 yards from the airport about 6 p. m. last night.

Witnesses said that the big craft apparently lost flying speed when coming in for a landing and dropped from a height of about 150 feet.

The plane grazed a three-story apartment building at Keating ave. and 64th st., broke an electric power line, smashed the fable of a bungalow and demolished a frame garage before coming to a stop.

FLAMES SHOT OUT

Flames shot out from the smashed nose of the plane as it struck the ground. City firemen extinguished the blaze which was confined to the pilots' compartment.

The pilot, co-pilot and four passengers were dragged from the wreckage dead or dying. Of the survivors only one was reported in a critical condition.

J. H. Herlihy, vice-president in charge of operations for the line, scouted the theory that ice formation on the wings might have caused the crash. He said that pilots are required to radio reports of icing and that none had been made by the plane crew.

Investigators for the civil aeronautics authority withheld announcement of their preliminary findings.

CASUALTY LIST

The dead:

Capt. Philip C. Scott, 34, Chicago, pilot.

First Officer George S. Young, 36, Oak Park, Ill., co-pilot.

Stuart W. Moore, U. S. ordinance engineers, Cleveland.

Wilbert J. Austin, 64, Cleveland, president of the Austin Company, industrial engineers and builders.

Miss Jane Selby, 27, Akron, O., employee of a Chicago candy company.

Lee F. Handline, 38, Downers Grove, Ill., Eastern division superintendent of reservations, United Air Lines.

Keller F. Melton, 46, Chicago, WPA safety engineer.

Charles W. Manville, 38, Cleveland, general sales manager National Refiners Co.

Manville and Melton, both of whom suffered fractured skulls and other injuries, died early this morning in Holy Cross Hospital.

The list of injured:

Stewardess Florence M. Little, 23, Chicago, internal injuries.

Owen M. Frederick, 52, Olmstead, O., civilian engineer employed at Cleveland by the U. S. Army.

George Haig, 45, partner in the Haig and Francisco firm, photographic advertisers, Dayton, O.

Paul Ryan, 46, Cleveland, president National Refiners Co.

Rolliston G. Woodbury, 41, (55 Madison ave.) New York city, vice-president, Textile Banking Company.

Theodore F. Paulsen, 40, Wilmette, Ill., department head, Montgomery Ward & Co.

Leo Wolins, 37, Chicago contractor. Fractured collarbone.

Richard R. Pettite, 26, Boston, Cal. and New York attorney.

CHANGES PLANES

The flight began at New York and stops were made at Philadelphia, Akron, O., and Cleveland. Dissatisfied with the performance of one motor, Capt. Scott was given another plane at Cleveland.

The airliner circled the airport for 28 minutes awaiting landing orders from the traffic control tower.

Richard Rocas, an employee at the airport, said the plane was making a "perfectly normal" approach to the field when suddenly the motors roared as if the pilot tried to attain height.

"The plane's nose dipped down and it turned slightly to the left," he said. "Then it hit the ground and broke into flames."

The first passenger able to tell of the accident was Woodbury, who said:

"The ship circled the airport for some minutes. All I remember about the smashup is that the wing tilted, there was a crash, a woman screamed and I lost consciousness."

Capt. Scott had been with the United Air Lines for eight years. He was a former University of Minnesota hockey star, captaining the 1923 team. He was married and had one child, a two-year old boy.

Officer Young had been flying United's New York-Chicago route for about a year.

LOANS TO New England Manufacturers FOR NATIONAL DEFENSE

TO build "total defense" for America, our government needs the output of hundreds of New England factories... It needs shoes and blankets, guns and airplane engines. It needs textiles and machine tools; shell casings, cutlery and many other products.

In some cases, New England manufacturers will require additional plant capacity to handle government orders. New plants may be built and old plants remodeled. New machinery may also be necessary.

By making loans for these purposes, as well as for your operating requirements, the Shawmut Bank can help you handle government orders promptly and efficiently. Speed is important and this bank is prepared to act quickly on inquiries from any sound New England business... large or small.

Through more than one hundred years of service to New England, this bank has been outstanding for strength and reliability in meeting the needs of its customers... On its record, the Shawmut Bank invites your inquiry.

Three Ships Send SOS In Gale

NEW YORK, Dec. 5 (AP)—Distress calls from three ships were picked up by Mackay Radio within eight hours today as a storm over the north Atlantic added to dangers in an area not far from where submarines have been playing havoc with shipping.

All of the ships—two were Greek freighters and the third was British—asked immediate aid and two cited the storm's "battering seas" and "heavy gale."

The third signal was heard at 11:58 a. m. The 4330-ton Greek Aghai Eirini radioed need of immediate assistance because of a broken steering gear and heavy gale about 600 miles west of Ireland.

The first cry for assistance came from the 425-ton Greek steamer Taygetos at about 3:13 a. m. She asked immediate assistance. The cause of her distress was not given and her position was unclear, although it appeared to be somewhere off the British coast.

More than 5 hours later the British steamer Saltwick radioed she was in distress about 700 miles off the coast of Scotland and asked immediate aid.

St. Lawrence Project Revived

DETROIT, Dec. 5 (AP)—President Roosevelt announced today he would ask Congress, convening in January, to approve a treaty with Canada providing for completion of the St. Lawrence seaway and power project "on which so much of our national safety and welfare depend."

The President's announcement, presaging another battle in Congress over the long-debated project (defeated in 1934) was made by A. A. Heile, Jr., assistant secretary of State, in an address before the Great Lakes Seaway and Power Conference.

Apply Tomorrow For Air Cadet Course

Those who have ambitions to be Army fliers, between the ages of 20 and 27, may apply tomorrow before the Flying Cadet board at the Army Base, South Boston.

Candidates must have two years of college training and be unmarried. Those meeting requirements will be given a three-month course with pay of $75 monthly, and receive commissions as second lieutenants on completion of the course.

Fired Carpenters Asked to Return

CAMP EDWARDS, Dec. 5—Carpenters let go on the Army's camp construction program were urged by the contractors today to return to work as soon as possible.

Officials of the Walsh Co., in charge of construction, said workmen no longer would be subjected to the "red tape" involved in their original hiring.

Tired Kidneys Often Bring Sleepless Nights

Doctors say your kidneys contain 15 miles of tiny tubes or filters which help to purify the blood and keep you healthy. When they get tired and don't work right in the daytime, many people have to get up at night. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder. Don't neglect this condition and live valuable, restful sleep. When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may also cause napping, back-ache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness.

Don't wait! Ask your Dr. or get Doan's Kidney Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Kidney Pills.

REAL CHRISTMAS JOY TO BE MOTHER'S IN RETURN OF WANDERING SON

Christmas will be a real holiday for the first time in four years for the mother of John J. Sullivan, wandering student who is coming home to Boston from his studies at the University of Washington in Seattle.

Young Sullivan left home in April, 1936, two months before he was to graduate from Lexington

High School. He had not been heard of since until he recently communicated with his mother, now living in the Back Bay.

"I can hardly wait to see him," she said, "I don't like his father, who runs on a cattle boat when a major and served under Ted Kobbler during the early days of the World War."

COMMONS VOTE BURES PEACE MOVE

Govern, "if necessary in a spirit of compromise."
McGovern, a member of Parliament since 1930, told the House: "We backed a policy of appeasement because we believed that anything was better than what would happen in war."

PHRAISES CHAMBERLAIN

He got the only cheers evoked by his statement when he asserted he believed the late Neville Chamberlain, who led Britain into the war after discarding his appeasement policy, "will have a much bigger place in history than he has at the moment."

"Do not let us be misled by statement about fighting for freedom, fighting for democracy, the kind of democracy that refuses to allow Sir Hugh Robertson, who is pacifist, to align on the wireless the kind of democracy that does what you say you want for Greeks, Greeks, Poles or other nations," McGovern asserted.

He concluded that a sympathetic statement over aims would evoke "response or the heads of politicians from the people of Germany."

Stephen, endorsing McGovern's statement, said: "If peace is to be based on justice and equity the time for a conference is now, because the military situation is one in which the pacifist fairly evenly balanced."

CITES BRITISH RESOURCES

"It may be said that Germany is occupying a position of military superiority but it would appear to be counter-balanced by the tremendous potential resources of the British empire, along with the promised material assistance of the United States."

"The time has come when Britain should make a great moral gesture to the world and offer peace to the other side on a basis of justice to all people," Stephen proposed a two-fold basis for a peace conference.

1—"Acceptance by the contending parties of the restoration of freedom to all countries."

2—"Both parties to put all their material resources which they are willing to devote to war into a common pool to bring about a new civilization in the world."

James Griffiths, Laborite, said everyone would welcome a real peace.

"But," he said, "the choice is not peace or war but capitulation or survival."

Griffiths and Sir Percy Harris, Liberal, agreed that the government should "take the first opportunity of stating its aims not because we are defeated or defeatists but because we are winning for Britain a new place in the world."

MUST GO TO VICTORY

A conservative view was expressed by Henry Brooke, who said "the war must go on to victory." He declared McGovern "would advocate for the whole Western world to surrender to slavery and devil."

Clement R. Attlee, lord privy seal, replying for the government, was interrupted by frequent cheers as he delivered an impassioned denunciation of "the fundamental fallacy" of the suggestion "that on one side was this terrible war and on the other side all the beauties of peace."

"The alternative is not war and peace; it is war and what kind of peace," shouted Attlee, who is a leader of the main labor party which is included in the Churchill government.

"Probably this debate is one which would not be tolerated in any other country at war," he continued. "No doubt we will be made of it. But I believe it will show our strength."

Frequently assailing Naxton, leader of the Independent Labor party, Attlee cried:

"If it comes to a conference and if Hitler refuses to listen to what is called the voice of reason and says he prefers his scheme and rejects the honorable member's idea of liberty and social justice, will the honorable member fight or give way?"

Maxton's retort that the question was "hypothetical" was greeted with laughter.

WORLD OF PEACE

"Our aim is to try to establish a world of peace of free peoples," Attlee concluded. "We cannot lay down the law to the rest of the world and we do not want to. We can only say 'here is our way of life.'"

"The best way in which we can advocate our principles is by striving to live more and more in accordance with the principles of social justice and liberty and by setting an example to the rest of the world."

McGovern presented his motion in the form of an amendment to a reply to the King's address opening the new Parliament and the three Independent Laborites represent the only nominal opposition in the government had to accede to a request for debate on war aims.

Timilty to Quiz All Suspects Held

Police Commissioner Joseph F. Timilty today notified all divisions that hereafter he personally will question all suspects picked up by the police department.

This means considerable extra work for the commissioner, and as much as most of the several suspects picked up daily for questioning are eventually released.

Asked who was behind his move the commissioner said:

"I am."

Schall Widow Tells Of Cult's Promise

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 5 (AP)—Freedom from 25 years of blindness was promised U. S. Sen. Thomas D. Schall of Minnesota, his widow testified, after they contributed "hundreds of dollars" to the "I am" movement.

Mrs. Margaret Huntly Schall, a government witness in the federal court mail fraud trial of the organization's leaders, described how "they told me I could cure him by visualizing some kind of light rays."

"Mrs. Ballard told me," the grey-haired witness declared, "that if I could visualize a ray of light coming down to his head and leaving it at right angles through his eyes, he would be cured. I tried without success."

COULD GET CASH

Accused are Mrs. Edna Ballard, whose late husband, Guy, founded the movement; their son, Donald, and eight others.

She said she and her husband first learned of the movement when literature was received at his office in 1935. Later, she continued:

"Mrs. Ballard told me if I looked into the atmosphere I could see particles of light sparkling, which was the exact substance used by the ascended masters in precipitating all material needs."

"She said the masters could precipitate clothes, money, automobiles—anything. She said she could even keep the spots off her clothing and keep them clean by casting in the ascended masters."

Mrs. Schall said she came to Los Angeles in 1937.

"Mrs. Ballard suggested that I move to Los Angeles because it was a city of angels, and after becoming a cataclysm, this would become a city of light," she testified.

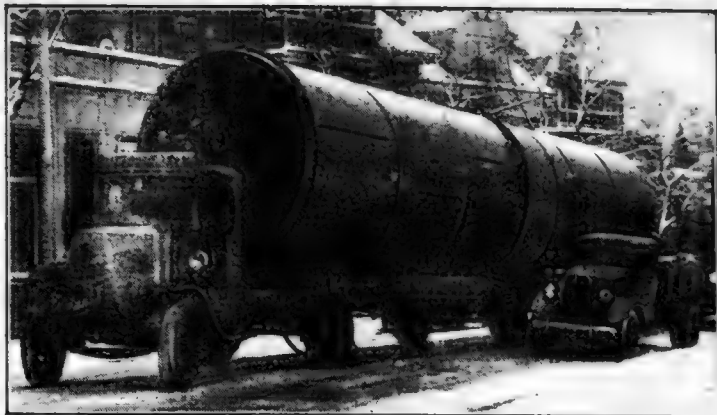

She told of "great gas belts" surrounding the earth which she said Mrs. Ballard blamed for past "cataclysms."

"Only through the 'I am' teachings could we keep these gas belts, and the resulting sinister forces, from spreading to the United States and causing a cataclysm here," Mrs. Schall said the teacher explained.

Base Taken, Greeks Besiege Two More

of Porto Edda, dispatches from the front said.

Porto Edda was beleaguered on two of its three land sides, and the Italians were reported fleeing along the northern coast road under heavy Greek artillery fire.

Italy has lost 32 planes in the last eight days, including 13 destroyed in a single mass dogfight yesterday, advices from the front added.

Reports by the Greek high command and the British Royal Air Force today included:

Two direct hits and "several near misses" on an Italian destroyer near Porto Edda, leaving it "listing heavily."

Apparent destruction of 10 Italian planes in "fierce battle" over Italian lines.

Raking bombardment of retreating Italians and their communications vital to withdrawal from southern Albania.

After fierce hand-to-hand fighting in the north, the Greeks reportedly occupied the entire Makija range, and seized several peaks in the Mokrassif area.

IMPORTANT VICTORY

Capture of Porto Edda which was used by the Italians as a landing base in their campaign against Greece, would represent a Greek triumph as important as the capture of Koriza.

Capture of Premet was announced by the high command as the Italians kept retreating along the entire battlefield. The war communique said:

"A fierce struggle in the mountainous region west of Pogradetz was crowned with considerable success."

"Stubborn resistance of the enemy north of Premet was broken after intense artillery fire. In this zone along two roads leading to the coast the enemy began his attacks with tanks. We last occupied Premet and the enemy suffered heavy losses."

"We took more than 500 prisoners and captured six guns as well as large amounts of war material."

"Activity of our air force was very successful, reconnaissance flights and the bombing of mobile and immobile military objectives was carried out. One enemy plane was shot down in combat. All our planes returned."

ON WHOLE FRONT
The wholesale Italian retreat extended along the entire front, according to latest reports. From Santi Quaranto, it was stated, the Fascists are moving back toward Chimara, from Agrocrastra they are heading for Tepeleni, and from Premet they are fleeing toward Klisura. From the hills northwest of Pogradetz on the northern front they are retreating to positions beyond the Skumt river.

In the Premet region the Italians were driven back by a fierce bayonet charge and fled in disorder to the west, it was claimed in Athens.

Greek Warship Is Sunk by Sub

ROME, Dec. 5 (AP)—An Italian submarine sank a Greek destroyer in the Aegean sea, the Italian high command reported today.

Communique said the Italian submarine Delfino sank the Greek warship No. 23. The destroyer was not identified.

Attacks and counter-attacks continued on the Albanian-Greek front while the Italian air force bombed behind the Greek lines, particularly on the road between Premet and Tepeleni, an important Greek supply line, the daily communique said.

The Greeks announced today the capture of Premet on the central Albanian front.

British planes bombed Turin, in northern Italy, killing one and injuring three, starting several fires in dye works, textile and carpet factories, without damage to military objectives, the high command asserted.

PRESIDENT AT BASE IN JAMAICA

ABOARD U. S. S. MAYRANT at Kingston, Jam., Dec. 5 (A. P. V. Radio)—President Roosevelt today arrived at this British West Indies possession—site of a new U. S. defense base—on his cruise in waters south of the United States.

Except for word that the island's governor-general would lunch with the President aboard the cruiser Tuscaloosa, no announcement was made of Mr. Roosevelt's plans.

The stop here, however, indicated further that one purpose of the voyage would be to inspect sites for U. S. air and naval bases obtained from the British in return for the transfer of 50 U. S. destroyers to the British navy.

Before leaving the U. S. mainland at Miami, Fla., Tuesday, the President declined either to confirm or deny that such inspections would be included on the trip.

Mars Just Can't Stop Cupid's Work

ARLON, Belgium, Dec. 5 (AP)—War, food rationing and nightly blackouts failed to stop the celebration today of the annual Arlon lovers' festival.

Amid matrimonial haggling of parents and whisperings of mid-diemen, called "bellechmaenner," plump rosy girls of one community exchanged glances with rustic farm youths from over the hill.

The fete—which dates back to days before the country was ruled by Roman legions—is held the first Thursday in December to provide an opportunity for youths and maidens in isolated regions to meet, look each other over and find a life companion.

4 Killed as Plane Crashes in Mexico

MEXICO CITY, Dec. 5 (AP)—Four persons, including two Brazilian army aviators, were killed when one of six planes being flown from California fell out of formation and crashed in flames in a thatched hut in the tiny village of Santiago de la Pena.

Lieut. Enrique Alencastro and Sergt. Enrique Erkens burned to death, and a woman and small boy in the dwelling also perished in the flames. Another woman and two children were burned.

Carol Death Plot By Guard Planned

LONDON, Dec. 5 (INS)—Reuters (British) News Agency today quoted reports from the Spanish frontier that the life of former King Carol of Rumania was in "some jeopardy."

Three members of the Iron Guard, avowed enemies of the former monarch, are secretly en route to Spain where Carol sought refuge following his abdication, according to the Reuters report.

CONGRESS VIEWS BRITISH WAR HELP

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5—Congress today asked for a voice in the new and secret plans being worked out for the United States to increase its war aid to Great Britain.

Revelation that England sent its undersecretary of the treasury, Sir Frederick Phillips, to this country to make a complete report of Britain's financial condition and war needs to American officials led Sen. Nye (R.) of North Dakota, to propose that Phillips be asked before a congressional committee to tell about his mission.

Friends of Sen. George (D.) of Georgia, a new chairman of the powerful Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said he would favor such a move after Phillips completes his work.

George declared that American industry should embark at once on a wartime, 24-hour operating schedule to speed armament production for both this nation and hard-pressed Britain.

Secretary Morgenthau said today that he, like Jesse H. Jones, the Federal loan administrator, believed that the British government was a "good risk" for loans.

The Treasury made the comment at a press conference after arranging to meet tomorrow with Sir Frederick.

Asked when the British would need credits, Morgenthau replied: "If I knew the answer to that question it would not have been necessary for Sir Frederick to have come over."

But as far as he knew, he added, Sir Frederick came to the United States only to present factual information of British finances and resources, as a basis for purchases in the United States, and not to make a joint request.

SEN. CLARK STARTLED
Asked whether he agreed with some congressmen's suggestions that Sir Frederick appear before congressional committees with his full report on British finances, Morgenthau said:

"I haven't had a chance to think about it."

Morgenthau's announcement to reporters that he considered the British a "good risk" was briefly put. Someone asked whether he agreed with a statement made yesterday by Jones, who is Commerce Secretary as well as loan administrator, that the British were a "good risk." Morgenthau said:

"In the Senate, however, Senator Bennett Champ Clark (D.) of Missouri said he was 'very much startled' at Jones' statement. England obtained large loans from this country during the World War, he said, and instead of repaying them had applied to 'Uncle Sam' the epithet 'Uncle Shylock.'"

Clark demanded that Congress look carefully into the "very large resources of the British empire."

Another aspect of the war finance situation was brought up by Sen. Telford (D.) of Ohio, who declared Morgenthau would be guilty of "usurpation of authority and breach of trust" if he carried out an announced plan to aid China's Government in a contract with funds from the $200,000,000 stabilization fund.

Telford is a member of the Senate banking committee before which Morgenthau and Secretary Hull appeared earlier this week. The two detailed their plans for using the fund to help China and the committee, jointly with the corresponding House group, voted approval.

TAFT SPEAKS OUT

Taft said that because of the death of a friend he was unable to attend the meeting, but that he had been there he would have "protested vigorously."

He maintained such a transaction would have to have the sanction of Congress, whereas proponents of the plan said it needed no special authority, that Morgenthau and Hull went before the committees merely to advise them of the government's intentions and the committees gave their approval merely as a vote of confidence.

Later Taft told reporters that on

BEARDED—Sir Oswald Mosley, imprisoned British Fascist leader, has grown mustache and Van Dyke beard. It became known when he appeared in London court in his libel suit against a London newspaper.

the question of financial assistance to Britain he was "open-minded." But it was "nonsense," he said, to call Britain a "good risk."

"If we are going to do anything," he declared, "it might perhaps be better to give them the money than lend it to them. At least that ought to be considered. In the end I think we may have to lend money to England, but some immediate aid to Canada would be desirable first."

Meanwhile, it appears that England can obtain badly-needed merchant ships to replace tonnage lost because of Nazi submarine warfare merely by putting the cash on the line.

The Maritime Commission has nearly 100 idle ships it is willing to sell, and they can be outfitted for ocean service in a month, it was disclosed. The commission also is ready to approve negotiations for U. S. shipyards to build England 60 more new cargo vessels, it is further reported.

Sen. Johnson (D.) of Colorado, said it is silly to talk about loans because they would never be repaid. He declared:

"I think it is very silly to talk about loans that we know and they know will never be paid back. Any loans that we make to England now would be gifts."

BLASTS BASE DEAL

Johnson suggested that the United States give England money to gain outright title to the eight air and naval bases this nation is building on British possessions in the Atlantic. The senator said that the U. S. made a bad deal when it gave England 50 destroyers for 99-year leases to the bases.

"Ninety-nine-year leases means 99 years entanglement with the British," he said. "We can afford to pay a lot of money to get out of that bad deal."

Nye, author of the original neutrality act and now sponsor of a resolution calling for an investigation of British financial resources in America, said that "I am in favor of questioning" Sir Frederick.

BRITONS EYE AID FROM U. S.

LONDON, Dec. 5 (INS)—Despite official warnings to go slow and not expect too much too soon, belief grew rapidly in London today that some major development in America's aid program to aid Britain is in preparation.

As a result, speculation began to run riot both in newspapers and among the British public as to the extent and speed of future United States assistance.

There were suggestions that the British government immediately should give some clear-cut, public indication of what it wants from America—and when—to clarify the present welter of conflicting reports from the United States and the current outpouring of imaginative British speculation.

WAIT LOTHIAN REPORT

In reply to these suggestions, well-informed London quarters pointed out that the present discussions in Washington are merely touching the fringe of the complex problem of American aid. They declared that until a full report has been received from Lord Lothian, British ambassador to Washington, and studied by the British Cabinet, it would be "foolish to rush prematurely into print."

Nevertheless, the British press eagerly is seizing every scrap of Washington gossip and playing it across the board, even when it is patently ridiculous.

Under this barrage the British man-in-the-street is beginning to talk in terms of hundreds more American destroyers, vast financial credits, a great fleet of merchantmen—all as if they were accomplished facts.

DOLLAR BIG PROBLEM

Informed British quarters take a more sober view of the situation and warn against overoptimistic expectations.

They point out that the dollar reserve situation is the crux of the whole problem, and that until this can be straightened out the "future must be regarded vaguely."

No informed person in London appears to believe that this question will not be straightened out and great reliance is being placed on Sir Frederick Phillips, British financial expert who arrived yesterday in the United States, to work out a formula satisfactory to both governments.

ASYLUM BLASTED IN NAZI RAID

LONDON, Dec. 5 (AP)—Several casualties were reported today when Axis raiders, striking anew, dropped a bomb shortly after noon on a mental institution in a southwestern town.

After leaving the embattled and in peace for several hours during the night, the raiders dropped four other bombs in the town, wrecking two houses without casualties. One fell on a road and two in an orchard.

Thirteen invading planes were shot down over Britain today as against the loss of one British fighter, the ministry of information announced late this afternoon. This is the highest number claimed for some time.

London had its first warning of the day early in the afternoon. It was quickly over without any reports of bombs being dropped. Raiders ranged wide over Britain last night, dropping high explosive and incendiary bombs, but the British said these attacks ended before midnight and casualties were few.

Nazi warplanes struck at the Midlands—both eastern and western sections—at London, at southwestern England and at Wales. At least two tons in the Midlands reported casualties.

In one of them, in the western midlands, an undetermined number of persons was trapped in basement shelters when homes were destroyed. A church and a police station also were reported hit.

In London bombs struck an unoccupied school, and a school for incurable children was destroyed. Raiders lashed at a town in the eastern midlands for four hours, but damage was reported to have been light.

There was heavy anti-aircraft fire all through the midlands and in the London area.

WHAT TYPE OF RUM FOR A DAIQUIRI?

CBS Reports Britain Wants U.S. in War

The majority of British officials would like the United States to throw aside its cloak of neutrality and declare war against the Axis powers.

That was the assertion facing America today as it came over a Columbia Broadcasting System address from England, delivered by William H. Murrow, dean of the CBS staff of European correspondents.

The thesis that American peace-time aid to England would be more effective than open belligerence is now "a dead and dynamited fish," according to Murrow.

Such a belief, he declared in his broadcast, was held in England during the American election campaign. But British opinion has changed, Murrow said, continuing: "Ask any member of Parliament or any member of the government whether he prefers a neutral America or a belligerent America, and you will get only one answer."

"Some would express preference for winning the war without American aid, but most would admit that it can't be done."

DOMINANT BELIEF

"I'm reporting what I believe to be the dominant informed opinion in this country. Later on, you may hear it expressed by responsible British spokesmen."

Murrow in his address, subject to censorship as all such newscasts are, declared that "a theory advanced by certain British and American journalists in the weeks preceding the American Presidential elections, has perished."

"That theory," he went on "was that the United States would be of greater help to Britain as a non-belligerent than as a full-fledged ally."

"The British, in spite of surface impartiality, wanted Roosevelt to win the election. They encouraged this theory that American assistance, based on peace-time organization, would be more effective than full-scale belligerent aid."

"It had the advantage of reassuring those American voters who feared that the country might be involved in a war."

"Since the election, we have heard nothing of this thesis. It's a dead and dynamited fish, and you would have difficulty in finding any responsible British official with a desire to revive it."

NEUTRAL BASIS AID

"It's possible that for a time certain Britishers believed that American aid on a neutral basis would be adequate and effective. If they thought so, their disillusionment has been rapid."

"There are no indications that any British minister is going to urge you to declare war against the Axis."

"But you must expect repeated references in the press and in public statements to the British belief that a democratic nation at peace cannot render full and effective support to a nation at war, for that is what the majority of thinking people in this country have come to believe."

Murrow told his radio audience he was not concerned, as a reporter, "to evaluate in terms of personal approval or disapproval" the interpretation that he was relating.

"I'm concerned," he said, "to report this development."

Alien Registration Total Here 126,983

The alien registration offices at the Boston postoffice will be open from 9:30 a. m. to 10:30 p. m. from now until the Dec. 26 deadline. It was announced today by Postmaster Peter F. Tague.

The Postmaster revealed that 126,983 aliens now have registered under the alien law in the Boston postal area.

French Warship Blown Up at Siam

BANGKOK, Dec. 5 (INS)—One French warship was blown up when a naval aloop was damaged when coastal guns and bombing planes effectively repulsed two French attempts to land on Siamese territory, the Thailand high command announced today.

Londoners Spend 1056 Hours in Raid Shelters

LONDON, Dec. 5 (INS)—A log, kept by the Ministry of Home Security, today showed that since the beginning of the German aerial attack in August, Londoners have spent a total of 1056 hours—the equivalent of 11 days—in air raid shelters.

There have been 398 air raid alarms, ranging in length from a few minutes to more than 11 hours.

During many of the days, a great part of the 24 hours has been under "alert" conditions.

18 Lady Astor in Plea For More U. S. Fliers

LONDON, Dec. 5 (AP)—In a fighting speech to the Eagle squadron of American volunteers in the Royal Air Force, American-born Lady Astor declared today the "British Empire, backed by the United States, cannot fail."

She predicted the 30 American volunteers now training for active service alongside British fliers would be followed by thousands of others.

"America should know that this is really the greatest hour of trial in the history of the English-speaking people," said Lady Astor, a native of Virginia, her eyes flashing.

"They may not know it, but it's their turn next." Turning to the young Americans, organized into a volunteer air force by Col. Charles Sweeney, Lady Astor exclaimed:

"I knew they would come. Thousands of young Americans are longing to get into this war. It is right that they should."

"As Sherman said, war is hell, but it is more terrible that the civilization we think is based on Christianity should fail."

Capt. H. H. Balfour, Parliamentary undersecretary for air, also spoke at a luncheon, saying:

"We hope your squadron will be followed by the formation of other squadrons impelled by the same motives and imbued with the same ideals."

He told the fliers they could be "ambassadors as well as airmen" by spreading throughout the United States a first hand picture of what Britain was doing and feeling about the war with Germany.

Bread Shortage Stirs Unrest in Martinique

BERLIN, Dec. 5 (INS)—Advices from Paris said today serious disorders have broken out in the French Caribbean island of Martinique, owing to a bread shortage attributed to failure of flour shipments to arrive from the United States.

At Vichy authorities said they had not been informed of any disturbances by officials at Martinique and denied the situation there was "important."—Editor's note.

Banks Aid Firms Helping Defense

New England bankers today went to the aid of all business firms working on, or anxious to procure, national defense contracts.

Roy A. Young, president of the Federal Reserve Bank of Boston, announced the entire membership of commercial banks in the first federal reserve district would give full co-operation to firms interested in defense work, even furnishing information on the needs of the army and navy and which will aid firms to get on the approved lists of the armed services.

In Boston, Ellis G. Hult, assistant cashier of the Federal Reserve Bank of Boston, said:

"The speed necessary to the defense program necessitates the quick availability of funds and this can be achieved through local lending institutions in close contact with borrowers."

"The nation's effort for preparedness calls for the full co-operation of every one and the banks of this city stand ready and willing to do anything they can to make it a complete success."

Sheep in Golden Garb Rouse Rumans' Ire

BUCHAREST, Dec. 5 (AP)—This is a modern story of the golden fleece.

Rumanian customs officials became suspicious of blood on a flock of sheep some Bulgarian peasants were taking out of Rumania into Dobruja, now part of Bulgaria.

Investigation showed hides had been cut, gold inserted under the skin and the cuts sewed up. Some sheep wore gold bells around their necks, on others gold pieces were hidden in long wool.

The Bulgarians were arrested.

WHAT BRITONS NEED IN WAR'S HARDSHIPS

Here are types of clothing needed by bombed, homeless civilians in England, as suggested by Robert W. Mortimore, chairman of the Greater Boston Committee of the British War Relief Society, Inc.

It makes no difference whether the sizes are for babies, children, adults, so long as the donations are warm and serviceable.
Shoes, low and high, and boots. Stockings and socks. Underwear. Woolen shirts. Sweaters, long-sleeved or sleeveless. Suits, trousers, skirts, jackets, matched or unmatched. Mackinaws, overcoats, topcoats, capes.

Caps, hats, stocking-caps (no women's fancy hats). Mittens, gloves, wristers. Mufflers (wool or flannel). Nothing (wool or flannel). Raincoats, rubbers, overshoes. Blankets.
All kinds of baby woolen things. (It is only an effort that new things are desirable, and if used articles are donated they are cleaned or cleaned and pressed.)
A CHRISTMAS SHIP FOR ENGLAND headquarters are at 100 and 72 Summer st., Boston, near Devonshire st. They are open daily from 8:30 a. m. to 9:30 p. m.; Sundays from noon to 9:30 p. m. For information on collections of clothing call LIBerty 2343, 2564 and 2658.

RICHMAN BROTHERS CLOTHES

LIKE FATHER, LIKE SON; BOTH GET THEIR CLOTHES AT GOOD OLD RICHMAN'S

Are you a young man of college age, or are you old enough to have grown-up sons? It doesn't matter. Richman Brothers have the clothes that will not only fit you perfectly... but will suit your personal tastes to a "T."

Here's an example. Many young fellows prefer rough fabrics like chevrons and tweeds. Do we have them? You bet we do. Most oldsters prefer the long-wearing, shapeholding, dignified-looking worsteds. Have we got 'em? Mister, we have every new color, pattern and style.

Yes, in every size and model, too. So whether you are young in years or just young in ideas, come to Richman's. You'll find here everything there is in style, at a price that will make it a pleasure to buy... as well as to wear. And this is true of overcoats as well as suits.

ZERO WEATHER SPEEDS CHRISTMAS SHIP GIFTS

the direct hit on the convent shelter were coming in from many sources, but more and more are needed.

Study shoes for women and children to wear in the ice and snow of the English winter are coming in, but more and more are needed. Coats, suits, underwear, stockings, mittens and mufflers are coming in, but more and more are needed.

You can't give too much as long as the Nazi aerial fleets keep pounding so mercilessly at the helpless civilians whose homes they destroy even when they fail to destroy their lives.

LATEST GIFT

Latest gift to help fill the dozen special cases, set aside for newly-purchased baby clothes, has arrived at headquarters of A CHRISTMAS SHIP FOR ENGLAND from the Harvard Women's Club of Brookline.

Mrs. Harold E. Gibby of Holland st., Brookline, president of that organization, deserves the credit for this donation, having enlisted her sister members for the campaign.

More gifts of this type are expected from other clubwomen within the next day or two, members of the Christmas Ship club committee reported.

The goal for this special "Baby Section" of the cases for the Christmas shipment is as many fresh, soft baby clothes as possible to cheer young mothers of newborn babies in Britain.

NEED BLANKETS

These mothers need the happiness that will fill their hearts when some warm and pretty things arrive for the children they cherish—and may lose any day if more of these "direct hits" are scored.

They need more blankets, too, like the fifteen beautiful woolen blankets which arrived in a large package at Christmas Ship headquarters. There was only a brief note inside, which said they were from 15 anonymous donors.

[Those blankets filled a case that will bring joy to many homeless families on the other side of the water, just as scores more will be cheered by the blankets the Boston Hotel Men's Association is collecting, through Leland E. Witney chairman of this division of the Christmas Ship committee.

MANY COMING

Chairman Witney has already donated ten warm blankets from the Hotel Kenmore alone. Many more are coming.

Nor are activities of this sort confined to Boston, for the Christmas Ship appeal has reached out through the farthestmost sections of New England.

In Houlton, Me., for example, the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks lodge has opened a drive, with S. A. Bennett as chairman. They will have their Christmas Ship donations at headquarters in Boston early next week.

Many parcels of clothing have come from Vermont, New Hampshire and Rhode Island, as well as from Connecticut communities of Hartford, Windsor, Norwich and Willimantic.

In this city, the latest large lot of men's suits, many new, all cleaned and pressed, were brought into headquarters from the Park Square Tailoring Co. by four of its employees.

There were 50 fine woolen suits in this donation.

DEADLINE SET

For the information of all those in distant points who want to know just how much time there is left, sponsors of the Christmas Ship announced today that the last case must be mailed, addressed and out of the Boston headquarters by noon on Dec. 14.

That means that if there is not to be a tremendous traffic jam on that date, all kindhearted persons who are co-operating in this campaign should try to have their donations in the first of next week.

That also means that more volunteers are still needed at the Christmas Ship headquarters, 100 and 72 Summer st., every day and every night for the next 10 days.

FEW HOURS HELP

If you can find a few hours to help in the work of sorting, lifting and packing donations in the cases that will go to England, will you send in your name or a card or note?

Or call Christmas Ship headquarters through LIBerty 2548, 2564, 2658 or 2673. Headquarters are open daily from 8:30 a. m. to 9:30 p. m., and Sundays from noon to 9:30 p. m.

Girls from the Boston Young Women's Christian Ass'n volunteered and worked at these headquarters last night and Tuesday night.

More Christmas-spirited women and men are needed, just as more clothes are needed for:

British Children Can't Get Enough Toy Warplanes

LONDON, Dec. 5 (AP)—Toys most in demand by London Christmas shoppers are model airplanes.

The most popular models are those of British Hurricane and Spitfire fighters.

The only demand for German Heinkels, Messerschmitts and Junkers is for full-size craft grounded by the RAF.

ART ON DISPLAY...

Famed Works of Willy Pogany

Imaginative—Brought into thousands of homes in New England through the Sunday Advertiser's American Weekly, the works of Willy Pogany show imagination and power... an example above, "The Tale of the Escape From Fire."

In Charge

George A. Kuiper and his secretary, Myrtle A. Woodman, arrange paintings of Willy Pogany, famed Finnish artist, at Symphony Hall.

A collection of the ten original drawings by Willy Pogany, which appeared on the covers of The American Weekly, magazine section of the Boston Sunday Advertiser, arrived in Boston today.

They will be exhibited Friday afternoon and Saturday evening in Symphony Hall in connection with the all-Siberian program of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, honoring the Finnish composers with yesterday.

These Pogany paintings, depicting the lives of heroes of the Finnish people, have attracted widespread attention.

The illustrations on exhibition at Symphony Hall originally accompanied the Finnish legends, retold by John Eskine in the American Weekly. The legends were collected in 1835, but their origins are lost in antiquity.

The adventures of the Finnish heroes come to an end when the Magi, with which they are all proficient, destroys them, symbolizing the conquering of paganism by Christianity.

It is especially ironic that Mr. Pogany should depict the end of his heroes' careers when the ultimate destiny of Finland is still tragically uncertain.

Now again, the Prayer of Vainamoinen, son of the wind, speaks for the people of Finland in "The Tale of the Escape From the Fire," illustrated in color by Mr. Pogany.

"Moon and Sun, friends of our fathers, stay with us always! Greet us at dawn, cheer the day's toil, and at night leave us not to the darkness, but shed upon us divine and radiant peace!"

THE "RED PAPER" of the Dies Committee Investigating Un-American Activities on Communistic boring and defense sabotage in this country is one of the most momentous documents ever submitted to our people.

Exhibit by exhibit, it confirms in overwhelming and irrefutable detail exactly what the Hearst papers have been insisting for years is the truth—THAT THE COMMUNISTS IN OUR MIDST ARE DEADLY ENEMIES OF OUR INSTITUTIONS AND OUR SECURITY.

It also throws a powerful light again on the double-faced attitude of the Russian government—a government which this Administration has called "friendly" and to which it has given special "favored nation" clauses in the lately renewed trade treaty.

The Dies Committee also reveals the ANTI-AMERICAN attitudes and doctrines of the Communist Party of America, which is the holding company in this country for the world-revolutionary Comintern of Moscow.

According to the Dies Committee, Communists are employed in all our key defense industries.

"We would not for a moment tolerate the uniformed soldiers of the Totalitarian powers working in our national defense industries," says the report. "Neither should we permit their UN-UNIFORMED SOLDIERS, who are far more dangerous, to hold such jobs where they are in a position to serve their foreign masters with little or no risk of detection and conviction."

The gravest revelation of the "Red Paper" is that the end and aim of the Communists in America is CIVIL WAR.

The eighth convention of the Communist Party of the U. S. A. contained this resolution:

"We must prepare to convert the imperialist war into civil war."

In the Communist formula, ALL WARS that are not for the enslavement of the world by the Reds are "imperialist wars."

ON THE DAY when this "Red Paper" was made public, the President saw fit to reprimand Chairman Dies for publishing, from time to time, the Committee's findings.

The Dies Committee represents the CONGRESS OF THE UNITED STATES.

It has done, and is accomplishing, an inestimable public service in letting the country know what the Communists and Bundists have been doing to undermine our institutions.

This is no time for the President, the Dies Committee and the Attorney General to be at odds. They should work together.

The Dies Committee has offered to co-operate in every way. That is the way to bring about "united action"—CO-OPERATION.

The Administration's antagonism to the activities of the Constitutional Dies Committee should cease.

The Committee is doing its duty. The people are in back of it.

We need and should have, a UNITED FRONT against the SABOTAGE FRONT!

ENDURING PROSPERITY is seldom an accident. Better wages, more secure jobs and higher living standards are usually the rewards of LOOKING AHEAD AND PLANNING FOR THE FUTURE.

Today, enterprising New England has its eyes on tomorrow, on distant possibilities and probabilities.

We know that the current war business must of necessity be limited.

We are convinced that we must prepare to meet the exigencies of an eventually peaceful world.

Therefore, we ask ourselves:

"What industry is peculiarly ours? What thing can we do better than any other part of the United States?"

The answer is BUILD SHIPS.

We have the skilled labor. We have vast stores of raw materials.

And, what is most important, we are surrounded on two sides by the Atlantic ocean, on which new ships will sail.

The present European war has greatly reduced the number of merchant vessels afloat.

Germany's latest claim that her U-boats have sunk in a single day 17 and perhaps 19 British commercial craft of a total tonnage of 150,000 may be greatly exaggerated.

But the loss is nonetheless tremendous, as indicated by England's efforts to construct freighters as rapidly as possible and to purchase old ones.

Some day every sunken boat must be replaced by a new and better one, and fleets enlarged to cope with the needs of nations in the process of reconstruction.

The replacing ought to be a principal New England concern. In early days of the country, when Yankee Clippers were famous throughout the world, a ship built in New England was universally regarded as the FLEETEST AND FINEST.

That reputation should be speedily restored.

On The Side

GAYLORD HAUSER is still escort No. 1 for Greta Garbo. When he takes Greta out for dinner he supervises her selection. He usually chooses uncooked vegetables and something which features garlic, as garlic scented spaghetti. Seeking the reason the food authority feeds Garbo so much garlic, I find scientists say garlic: "Stimulates the appetite, promotes digestion, quickens the circulation, excites the nervous system and acts as a tonic" . . . Prof. Henry Borsook, another expert on diet, specializes in vitamins and has written an interesting and possibly valuable book titled "Vitamins. What They Are and How They Can Benefit You." The Professor says parsley is a great source of Vitamin A. But doesn't mention parsley wine. That, I understand, is really something . . . Harold Ross is the San Francisco who edits the New Yorker. During World War he was editor of the official newspaper of the A. E. F., "The Stars and Stripes." This paper should be immediately revived for the entertainment and edification of the current draftees.

CAROL LOMBARD and Clark Gable play a lot of backgammon together. This is probably Carole's idea. She has always had a definite plan of handling Clark as Cleopatra did Marc Antony. Cleo and Marc played backgammon together. Some time ago when Carole read that Cleopatra joined Marc in all his sports, she started taking shooting lessons so she could go duck hunting with Clark. Mr. and Mrs. Gable seem to get along very nicely. So, lady, if things are not going so well at your house perhaps you better study up on that Cleopatra technique.

MICHAEL MULCAHY of Chicago states: "The condescending manner in which Scotchmen are in the habit of speaking of Irishmen irritates me. And not without reason. These Scotchmen should keep in mind Scotland was once a province of Ireland. The Romans referred to Scotland as 'Lesser Ireland' . . . New York City has the youngest and best looking policemen in the U. S. A. These 'copettes' start at salary of $30 a week and can work up to $75 weekly in five years. After 20 years of service, they can retire on a pension equal to half their salary. Not so bad, what? . . . The ancient saying is: 'Every dog has his day.' But what day is it? Why not an annual dogs' day? Then the pups of America could have extra special bones, very long walks and several automobile rides.

QUERIES: Q—Is there a 26-letter sentence containing all the letters in the alphabet. A—Never heard of one, Sir. There's a 21-letter sentence of this type: "Quick waffing Zephyrs vex bold Jim." Q—Please repeat poem you quoted about a cockroach. A—Never quoted such a poem, ma'am. Did quote Josh Billings, who said: "The cockroach, in my opinion, is a surplus bug" . . . Q—Did you ever hear Lottie Gilson sing "She Was Such a Nice Girl, Too?" A—Can't say I did. But I heard May Irwin sing "If You Ain't Got No Money You Needn't Come Around"; Blanche Ring, "I'd Leave My Happy Home for You," and Nora Bayes "Keep a Little Cloze Corner in Your Heart For Me."

Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt

HOUSTON, TEXAS, Wednesday —It was interesting to see the West Texas oil men wandering in and out of the lobby of our hotel as they gathered in Abilene for their convention. There is a long, lean, Texas type of man who reminds me always of Will Rogers. One imagines that they all possess the qualities which were so attractive and lovable in him.

They look like people who can stand sun and wind, who are at home on horseback and in far places by themselves. They give one a great sense of security in the future of our country.

In Dallas, Texas, we spent a little over an hour yesterday in the railroad station before leaving for Houston. A reception was held for me in the station by the Women's Democratic Luncheon Club. The members brought me flowers and were most kind in coming down to welcome me as I went through their city.

Mr. Murrell Buckner presented us with something very unusual, which the chef of our dining car cooked for our dinner. It was venison sausage. I confess I wondered what it would be like, but it turned out to be very good and we enjoyed our evening meal on the train.

BY THE TIME we arrived at Houston I felt as though we had had quite a long day, but I must say that hours spent on the train give one an opportunity for reading rarely obtained elsewhere. I finished a whole book, which I had carried in my briefcase for some weeks before returning it to the Junior Literary Guild with my criticism.

Yesterday we went through some hilly sections of Texas that had a certain amount of water. It does make a great deal of difference to the countryside.

I am struck by the fact that on the outskirts of nearly all small towns and big ones there are houses which look very much like some of the California migratory camps. The houses are made of scraps, apparently; bits of corrugated iron, even heavy cardboard is used, and it looks as though they were built on dump heaps.

It cannot be very healthy for people to live in them. One wonders how conscious the town authorities and the townspeople are of these conditions on their outskirts. I suppose this is partly the result of being a new country, where people come either to begin life for the first time on their own, or to begin it over again, if, for some reason, they have failed elsewhere.

Modern conditions do not make the pioneer way of living as safe as it once was. However, I cannot help feeling that there should be some better way of meeting this problem in modern society than the one which seems prevalent in many parts of the country.

Broadway Medley

STRANGERS DELIGHT
CHAPLIN

By Leonard Lyons

NEW YORK, Dec. 5—Robert Stoltz, who wrote "Two Hearts in Three-Quarter Time," and Gesa Hertzog, who wrote "Pasteru" and "Zola," are collaborating in writing an opera for the Broadway stage . . . John Tuerk, who produced "The Romantic Mr. Dickens" Monday night at William A. Brady's Playhouse, used to be Brady's office boy . . . Charlie Chaplin was awakened by a phone call last week from a lady who informed him that she was giving a party at which some of Chaplin's friends were present, and asked him to join them. Chaplin dressed, went to the party, discovered that he knew none of the guests—and remained there until 3 a. m., because he enjoyed himself so much.

CLIFTON WEBB, now touring in a road company of "The Man Who Came to Dinner," is anxious to return to New York and get into another show. George S. Kaufman, however, won't permit Webb to break his contract . . . "Isn't there something I can do to get out of this show?" Webb pleaded. "Surely some one can find a way to break a run-of-the-show contract with George S. Kaufman" . . . "There is a way," Webb was reminded. "The only way" . . . "What is it?" he asked, eagerly . . . "Margaret Sullivan secured a release in 'Stage Door'!" was the answer, "by having a baby."

MAX REINHARDT is preparing to return to Broadway. He's rehearsing a troupe in Pirandello's "Six Characters in Search of an Author" . . . Oscar Strauss, the author of "The Chocolate Soldier," who fled from Vienna to Paris, now is en route to this country . . . Edward L. Bernays' "Speak Up for Democracy" has been refused the reduced postal rate of 1½ cents per pound—which is permitted for all books—because the 3d Asst. Postmaster General ruled that his book "carries advertising." The "advertising" matter complained of is merely a listing of collateral reading and reference material . . . Paula Laurence of Ruban Bleu is the first entertainer signed to appear at the war relief ball to be given by the Duke and Duchess of Windsor next month.

AT THE OPENING of the Metropolitan Opera some of the regulars reminisced of those earlier days when Otto Kahn guided its destinies. At every opening Kahn would parade through the house greeting all comers . . . And so when the question was put: "When did the opera season open?" the reply was: "The opera season opened when the curtain rose, the orchestra played the opening bars—and Otto Kahn sat down."

THE LIGHTS at the new Bond Clothes store at Broadway and 45th st. have been kept burning since Sunday—although the store wasn't officially open—to permit all newsmen and newspaper camera men to bring their stock shots of Broadway up to date . . . All of Ferenc Molnar's plays are being sold for presentation in South America. Maurice J. Speiser, the attorney, is negotiating the deal . . . G. V. Gontard, who closed his production of "Thank You, Columbus" after losing $50,000, told the Hollywood Reporter why he decided not to risk any further loss. Gontard said: "I closed the show after learning that it cost Columbus less to discover America than it cost me to thank him for it."

SIMONE SIMON was introduced to Al Bernie, the mimic, who told her: "I sometimes do an impersonation of you." Miss Simon expressed surprise, and told him: "I hope you're easier to understand than I am—because nobody ever knows what I'm talking about" . . . After Ernest Hemingway and Martha Gellhorn set up their new home in Havana, the bride will go to Europe on a magazine assignment. Hemingway then will join her in Egypt . . . The best pass thrown at the Army-Navy game was that thrown by Mary Jane Walsh. She hurled a doughnut across 10 rows of seats, hitting Ted Husing's forehead while he was broadcasting.

NOEL COWARD, now in Australia, witnessed a parade of the troops in Sydney . . . Near the parade grounds Coward saw a group of children playing with a dog . . . Coward turned to the commanding officer and said: "That dog is very lucky" . . . The officer asked him: "Luckier than the children?" . . . "Yes," said Coward. "That dog never will have an enemy."

MARGARET SULLIVAN

TOM HARMON TOLD BOB CONSIDINE that the Harvard football players were so polite that they accompanied their blocks and tackles with a "Pardon me!" . . . Another sports-writer from Manhattan, Jimmy Powers of the News, selects Boston College and Michigan as the outstanding teams in the country, and acclaims the Sugar Bowl game as the outstanding attraction of the year.

BENNY GOODMAN AND HIS NEW band take over Roy Gill's Totem Pole tomorrow night . . . Irving Berlin threw consternation into the ranks of ASCAP by closing all the district offices of the Berlin song-publishing firm . . . Harry Paul, the Boston song-plugger, was the last outpost eliminated . . . Jack Robbins, boss of the so-called "Big Three" of the music industry (and a native of Worcester) was entertaining the press and Boston music-men at the Ritz-Carlton as "Ice Capades" was getting ready to open at the Garden.

MR. ROBBINS RATES BELITA, the sensational new young skater, as superior to Sonja Henie, and a $5,000,000 . . . asset . . . (He thinks she'll attract that much to the box-office in the course of her career) . . . "Ice Capades" is the first sport-spectacle to use a musical score by prominent writers on the same sort of royalty basis which prevails for musical comedies and revues.

THE WRITERS OF "DEEP PURPLE" Mitchell (Mike) Parrish and Peter de Rose, composed some "Ice Capades" tunes . . . Parrish is the best-seller among the country's lyric-writers . . . His accounts with the Robbins firms—there are three publishing houses under the Robbins aegis—showed a sale of a million and a quarter copies of Parrish songs in one year . . . "Deep Purple" alone sold more than a half million copies . . . "Lilacs in the Rain" and "Stairway to the Stars" were other huge sellers written by the veteran Mike.

SELDOM HAVE SUCH RAVES been loosed over the town as the exclamations of joy inspired by the mere presence on the Colonial stage of beautiful Christina Lind . . . "Exquisite" is an adjective that is being used considerably . . . Miss Lind is a graduate of radio, and her love-interest role in "Hi-Ya Gentlemen" is her musical comedy debut . . . The lass has a lovely voice—and besides, she is—exquisite.

ADMITTING THE FRAGILE LOVELINESS of young Miss Lind, this column's personal choice of the youngster in the Max Baer show who carries the most emphasis in the matter of appeal is a miss named Jane Kean . . . She also can sing . . . We are still trying to puzzle out why "Dog Biscuit" won the Big Race in "Hi-Ya Gentlemen" and what happened to the authors' earlier arrangements to have "Dog Biscuit" finish up the track.

AS THIS IS THE main line of the plot, and carries gangsters, G-men and college heroes through its mazes, it might be a good notion to bring a bit of logic to the ending . . . At first sight, you don't much care . . . The insipidity of a routine musical comedy plot is taken for granted . . . But it does seem that a trifle too much strain on the credibilities is placed by the story of "Hi-Ya Gentlemen" . . .

GUY ROBERTSON, BARITONE of many a musical hit, and husband of sprightly Andrew Christie, was heard to remark—sort of to himself and sadly—"I never thought I'd enjoy watching my wife perform a strip tease before the public" . . . Audrey, however, is so marvelous in the show that Guy's tolerance has stretched . . .

GEORGE MacFARLANE will replace Jacques Renard at the Versailles, beginning tomorrow night . . .

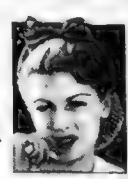

CHRISTINA LIND HAILED AS "EXQUISITE"
Graduate of Radio Is Now in Max Baer's Show

Harry Marshard has contracted to play 17 debutante parties between now and New Year's . . . Dorothy Stone and Charles Collins were hailed by a host of Boston friends at their Mayfair opening last night . . . Sheila Barrett took last night off from the Versailles to fulfill a Bridgeport concert booking . . . She'll be back tonight.

GABLE, LANA TURNER
FOR 'UNIFORM'

By Louella O. Parsons

Lana Turner

PITTSBURGH, Dec. 5—Teaming Clark Gable and Lana Turner is certainly one for the books. Looks like M-G-M is going in for omph n' a big way announcing Clark and Lana for "Uniform" (which they tell me does not mean a sweater for Lana). To the contrary, the uniform referred to is a British officer's. The original story by Hans Kafka is about an English captain in the Orient (Gable) who is dishonorably discharged for cheating at cards. He falls in love with a Hongkong show girl (Lana) and together they steal everything but the Chinese wall. But in order to pull his biggest deal he needs to "borrow" an officer's uniform—and presto, reformation accidentally sets in when he dons his old clothes.

Heard that Lana is a different girl from the siren who used to haunt the night clubs since Tony Martin came into her life and since she seriously buckled down to the best acting part of her career in "Ziegfeld Girl." I've said all along she has what it takes to be a Clara Bow if she would grow up a little. Hunt Stromberg will produce "Uniform," scheduled for February starting date.

has a commercial aviation background and since Dick Arlen has been getting a lot of publicity with his aviation school they selected him as the logical star. Besides Dick was a Para star for 11 years.

JACK WARNER and Harry Cohn are in a huddle today discussing the deal Warners are offering for half of Rita Hayworth's contract. She is definitely set for "The Bride Came C. O. D." with Jimmy Cagney when and if Columbia will permit Warners to have half interest in their glamour girl. Warners aren't too eager to build Rita with big roles in important pictures if they can't have at least part time call on her services. They feel they were badly burned in the Ann Sheridan contract fracas—but Annie has her side, too. I still say the Sheridan-Warner feud is too bad for everyone concerned.

WALT DISNEY'S unusual exhibit at the Los Angeles County Museum is attracting much interest. Several days ago Walt agreed that his original cartoons might be shown to the public. But since he found out how interested the public really is in the workings of his studio, at his own expense, he installed exhibition rooms where his animators work daily with the crowds looking over their shoulders. The idea is sort of a tryout preview for Disney's next—"Reluctant Dragon," which is based on a tour through a cartoon studio.

SNAPSHOTS OF HOLLYWOOD: Hedy Lamarr, who had a little spat with John Howard, attending the "Comrade X" preview with Janet Gaynor and Adrian. She wore black velvet hostess slacks with high neck and a long red fox coat; has Margaret Sullivan ever admitted she's expecting a third child? Everyone working with her on "Back Street" says it's true; Martha Scott and groom, Carleton Alspa, have gone on a belated honeymoon to a ranch near Palm Springs; apparently Elizabeth Bergner intends to settle in Hollywood. She has bought herself a home in Coldwater Canyon.

VIC ORSATTI'S new heartbeat is Lucia Carroll; all the stars who are not on the stage for the Examiner's Christmas show Friday night will be in the audience; Maureen O'Sullivan, who visits Johnny Farrow in Canada every chance she gets, left last Sunday—even though the studio notified her she would have to be back Wednesday to start "Billy, the Kid"; Lloyd Pantagones opens at the La Conga this week-end for a return engagement of his popular Friday night shows which went over so well last year; Lewis Howard, Universal's new hopeful, and Lols Ranson are seeing eye to eye.

26 Stiff Battle Rages On Pardon Charges

consideration by the board. The public is not told of this.

"Why isn't the public told that there are thousands of other cases where representatives of the various other districts have interested themselves in good faith and where paroles were granted in some instances and denied in others, according to the facts?"

Gavin denied the commission's charge that his attitude at board hearings had been "harsh and far from judicial," declaring board members had never had the opportunity to observe his actions themselves.

SAWYER RAIS CREGG

He claimed that Capt. George A. Parker, vice-chairman of the special commission, had never sat with the parole board at a hearing and that neither had Rep. Sawyer. Rep. Sawyer, whose supplemental report in the paroles and pardons matter, was sensational in its denunciation of Coakley's activities and "the unwholesome fear" he inspires in politicians high and low, struck out again at Cregg in the course of the day.

"What I said in the report submitted to the General Court yesterday speaks for itself," Sawyer said. "In that report I stated if Dist. Atty. Cregg had given to the commission the aid which we had every right to expect from him, the Maurice Limon case would have been broken wide open and would have proven equally as bad as that of Raymond L. Patriaca.

"For some unknown reason, which you will have to ascertain from Dist. Atty. Cregg, the officer, sworn to uphold and enforce the law and to aid in the apprehension of law violators, did not choose to give the commission any aid."

"I believe the way Dist. Atty. Cregg handled the pardon matter demands the attention of Atty.-Gen. Robert F. Bushnell as soon as he takes that office."

(In the Maurice Limon case to which Rep. Sawyer refers, Limon, a Peabody manufacturer, was pardoned in 1935 by former Gov. James M. Curley after serving 13 months of a three to five year sentence for arson. Limon committed suicide only six months after being pardoned.—Editor's note.)

DEWING STRIKES BACK

Dist. Atty. Dewing, caustically criticized in a parole case by Rep. Sawyer, declared:

"I have been assured by Sen. Jarvis Hunt, chairman of the special commission, that he and his commission have at all times received my sincere co-operation.

"The only person who has made any statement which would reflect on my office is Rep. Sawyer, the publicity seeking and politically-minded legislator from Ware.

"I challenge Mr. Sawyer to produce any evidence that I at any time failed to co-operate with

New Parole Board Plan Would Cost $14,000 More

Recommendations of the special legislative commission that the present State Parole Board be abolished and a State Parole Commission created instead would increase the annual cost to the state by $14,000, it was revealed today.

As recommended, the new commission would include a chairman at $9000 a year, two male associates at $7000 a year each and two female associates at $5000 each; a total cost of $33,000 yearly.

Present parole board salaries run to $19,000 a year. Ralph W. Robert of Cambridge, receives $3500; P. Emmet Gavin of Quincy, $4500; Joseph S. Mitchell of Roxbury, $4500; Mrs. Isabelle Winsper of New Bedford, $2250 and Mrs. Ruth O'Keefe of Lynn, $2250.

this special investigation commission."

Sawyer's supplemental report was sensational in its denunciation of Coakley's activities and the "unwholesome fear" he inspires in politicians high and low. It declares the pardon racket began in 1931 and continued until 1933 through the administrations of Gov. Ely, Curley and Hurley. Summarizing his conclusions in a 45-page typewritten statement, Rep. Sawyer states:

CHARGES MISCONDUCT

"It is my conviction, as a member of the commission, that it is the duty of the incoming legislature, representing the people of this state, to cause Daniel H. Coakley, Sr., member of the executive council, to be impeached for misconduct and maladministration in his said office."

Sawyer also favors taking the power of appointing a new parole organization out of the hands of the governor and executive council and vesting it in the chief justice of the Supreme Court so as to remove it entirely from politics.

The majority members cite Senator Edward C. Carroll and former Senator William P. Madden as politicians who had great power over the parole board. They were the sponsors of legislation in the administration of Gov. Ely that created the job to which P. Emmet Gavin, was appointed.

Bearing on the friendliness that existed between Gavin and Senators Carroll and Madden, the commission states that one of the witnesses who gave testimony before it quoted Gavin as saying he was under great obligation to both senators.

Of Chairman Robert the commission states that despite his qualities as an individual he does not possess the qualities of leadership and administrative ability necessary to be a chairman and the commission is of the opinion he should be relieved of that office.

The commission made the following recommendations:

1—A constitutional amendment to have the governor and council grant paroles in accordance with rules established by the Legislature.

2—Transfer of defective delinquent cases to the department of mental health, with the right granted the department to grant "conditional releases," and not "parole permits" as are now granted.

3—Transfer of cases of "drunks" to the commissioner of correction, giving him power to grant "conditional releases."

4—Amendment of so-called "good time law," so that prison authorities would have control over those released before end of sentence.

5—Written information to parole-es outlining terms of paroles.

6—Requiring prisoners sent to state prison to serve a minimum of two years and at least two-thirds of sentence before being eligible for parole permits.

MARLBORO AIDE SAYS 'GUILTY'

EVENING AMERICAN, THURSDAY, DECEMBER 5, 1940

The alleged "hit man" case involving Attorney Major Louis E. Ingalls of Marlboro and John J. Danvers, Marlboro city solicitor, came to an abrupt end in Middlesex Superior Court today when Danvers pleaded guilty to four indictments against him.

Previously he had pleaded not guilty to charges of conspiring with the late mayor to accept bribes from Dan Danvers and Floyd Russell, Marlboro fireman who allegedly paid $500 each for their jobs, and of being an accessory before the fact of acceptance of bribes from the men.

A tragic turn was given the case Thursday when Mayor Ingalls left his home to spend a night in the jail over a Marlboro pistol, and committed suicide.

Last Amy Danvers, F. Bradford today asked Judge Frederick W. Bodine to postpone sentencing Danvers until next Tuesday in view of the tragic circumstances of the case.

Phyllis J. Danvers, 27, of West Main St., Marlboro, who had been indicted for conspiring to procure money for the late Mayor Ingalls' bid for a Middlesex county grand jury on Sept. 18 last when he had been acting as a witness in the Ingalls Danvers case, pleaded guilty to that charge against him.

John F. Danvers, 37, retired contractor, charged with the same crime, pleaded guilty to that charge against him.

ELsie Robinson writes the woman's viewpoint, discusses everyday affairs and problems, regularly in the Boston American.

Dozen at Alcatraz Strike Against Defense Washing

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 5 (AP)—

The boys at Alcatraz will do their part in the National Defense program even if it isn't very exciting.

Warden James A. Johnston ruled the convicts' bit is to take soiled linen from incoming Army and Navy transports and send it back fresh and clean.

A dozen of the hundred laundry workers, linked by the mountainous piles of incoming linen, staged an informal strike yesterday.

Armed guards hustled the dissenters to their escape-proof cells. The men were given late dinners and breakfasts and denied library and reading privileges.

ANTI-PARI-MUTUEL MOVE

An initiative petition bearing 20,272 signatures for repeal of the pari-mutuel betting system was on file today with the Secretary of State.

Autopsy Told At Blood Trial

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Dec. 5 (AP)—Trial of Richard E. Blood of Pawtucket, state labor investigator, on a charge of murdering his pretty young wife, Muriel, was transformed into a lecture on medicine in superior court here today as Dr. Thad A. Krollick, medical examiner, described in detail what he found in his autopsy.

Using his own body for purposes of illustration, Dr. Krollick pointed out for Judge G. Frederick Frost and the jury, whose panel includes two alternates, the location of each of the internal injuries he found in Mrs. Blood's body following her death last Sept. 5.

Prosecutor James O. Watts, in outlining the case, said it would be shown that Mrs. Blood's injuries were inflicted by the "external violence" of her husband.

Diver to Hunt Dragger Bodies

Diver Fred Wallace of Somerville, veteran of scores of water tragedy hunts, will descend into the sea tomorrow off Provincetown in an attempt to locate the bodies of five Greater Boston fishermen believed lost with the fishing dragger Frances.

The vessel was discovered sunk by the dragger Clarence S. Mitchell, which had been engaged in a search since the Frances was reported overdue.

Meanwhile Michael Sinagra of George St., Everett, left for Provincetown to go out to the spot where the body of his brother, Anthony, bridegroom of only a few weeks, is believed to be lying.

The only person who does not believe it is the bride, whom he left in November for the fatal fishing trip.

At the home of her mother in May st., Everett, the young bride said she has not given up hope.

'South of Suez' On Twin Bills

Two first-run features, "South of Suez," starring George Brent, Brenda Marshall and George Tobias, and "Street of Memories," make up the new double-feature bill at the Paramount and Fenway Theaters.

Intrigue, murder and mystery make up the story of "South of Suez," which takes place in the adventure-laden atmosphere of a South African diamond mine. George Brent plays the role of a soldier-of-fortune mine foreman who meets his share of murder, theft and intrigue at the hands of a ruthless mine owner, played by George Tobias. He is framed for the murder of a rival mine operator and clears himself after many a harrowing escape.

Charming Brenda Marshall supplies the romantic interest when she allies herself with Brent in an effort to prove his innocence. Lee Patrick, in the role of Tobias' embittered wife, gives the story a novel twist that will surprise the most sophisticated movie-goer. James Stephenson and Eric Blome lend their talent to the supporting roles. Lewis Siller directed for Warner Brothers.

Lynne Roberts and John McGuire in the romantic "Streets of Memories" enact a love story that is said to be one of the most unusual ever told on the screen. The picture deals with a boy who has lost his memory and a girl who helps him fight for a chance in life. Shepard Traub directed for Twentieth Century-Fox.

Elmer Rice's Play Due Here

"Flight to the West," starring Betty Field in Elmer Rice's newest play, comes to the Wilbur Theater for a week's engagement, starting Monday, Dec. 28. Mr. Rice has staged the play and Jo Mielziner has provided some striking and unusual stage settings.

"Flight to the West" is a Playwrights' Company production and is scheduled to open in New York in early January, following engagements in Washington and here. Rice, author of "Street Scene," "Counselor-at-Law" and other successes, was one of the founders of the successful Playwrights' Company.

It was he who staged Robert E. Sherwood's "Abe Lincoln in Illinois," which was the play that initiated the long list of successes that has since distinguished this organization of dramatists. Others comprising the group, in addition to Rice, are Maxwell Anderson, S. N. Behrman and Robert E. Sherwood. Miss Field, whose film repertoire has included leading roles in "Of Mice and Men," "What a Life" and "Seventeen," heads an uncommonly large cast in "Flight to the West." Among those appearing in her support are Arnold Moss, Paul Hearn, Hugh Marlowe, James Seeley, Constance McKay, Boris Marshakov, Eleanor Mendelssohn, Karl Malden, Grandon Rhodes, Helen Renee, Kevin McCarthy, Rudolph Weiss and John Triggs.

DESPITE the zero weather subscribers came from far and near to the Morning Musicales yesterday . . . The pleasant custom of serving steaming hot coffee was more popular than ever and provided music lovers with a chance to warm up while they chatted with friends about holiday plans . . .

Many of the out of town subscribers made a day of it . . . going on from the concert to luncheon in the Terrace Room at the Statler and then downtown for Christmas shopping . . . Mrs. John Filoon who came in from Brockton crossed off several names on her Christmas list as she purchased some colorful slippers and Mrs. Benjamin Read of Fall River toured the shops all afternoon . . . Wearing a modish suit of teal blue wool trimmed with cocoa ermine she occupied her regular seat at the concert next to her friend, Miss Margaret Brayton, also of Fall River.

Marian Anderson, famous American contralto, was guest artist and won instantaneous applause from the thousand-odd music lovers who packed the Statler Ballroom . . . The huge lunch of American beauties presented her by the Musicales committee was a perfect foil for her stately gown of palest gray taffeta made on simple, medieval lines . . .

Mrs. J. Harleston Parker, wearing a toast wool dress and silver fox turban, sat with Mrs. Arthur Bell . . . Mrs. William Hallowell, who brightened her black ensemble with a scarlet hat and purse, attended with her mother-in-law, Mrs. John Hallowell . . . and Mrs. Wallace Pierce, whose mink coat was topped by a small veiled raspberry sailor, sat with her mother-in-law, Mrs. Walworth Pierce . . .

Many Socialites Attend

A CLUSTER of white bouvardia added a springlike touch to Mrs. Robert Treat Paine's black dress which had a frilly white collar, and she carried a luxurious sable muff . . . Rosamond Emerson was a colorful figure in tiger gold wool with a teal hat trimmed with an eagle quill, and her mother, Mrs. Warren Emerson, wore fashion's favorite black . . .

MARTHA TURNER, left, and Margaret P. Black manage to crowd a lot of charity work in between their merry debutante festivities and here they are in a jovial mood as they do their bit for a worthy cause at one of the many pre-Christmas bazaars. Miss Turner is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Howard M. Turner of Cambridge, and Miss Black's parents are Mr. and Mrs. N. Henry Black.

Others adding their share to the warm applause were Mrs. Selim S. White who sits with Mrs. Hovey Slayton of Manchester, N. H., at each concert, Mrs. Malcolm Bradley French, Mrs. William B. Long, Mrs. Robert Cushman, Mrs. William Feiberg, Mrs. Charles Bacon and Mrs. John Lawrence . . .

Mrs. Alonzo Wessel, grandmother of Lucy and Nancy Cochrane, lunched afterward at the Statler with a young actress playing currently in Boston . . .

MR. AND MRS. ROSS WHITTIER, who gave a Thanksgiving dance for their debutante daughter, Mary, are entertaining a group of their own friends at a cocktail party before the first of the Sheraton dinner dances Saturday evening . . . Among their guests will be Mr. and Mrs. Merrill Griswold, Mr. and Mrs. John Norton, the John Perrins, the Robert Terrys,

Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Ames and Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin A. G. Thorndike . . .

Notes Off Cuff

MRS. THEODORE LITTLE, Mrs. Herbert White and Mrs. Roswell Parish were joint hostesses at a cocktail party and luncheon at the Algonquin Club this afternoon . . . Following luncheon the guests settled down to a pleasant session of duplicate bridge . . .

Mrs. John L. Graham, of the Fenway, is giving a series of weekly afternoon teas to introduce her new daughter-in-law, Mrs. Joan Grandin, Jr., to her many Boston friends . . . The new daughter-in-law, Mrs. Joan Grandin, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wilson of Philadelphia . . .

Learning the news of her plan to marry, Mrs. Joan Grandin was so excited that she had a fainting spell at the Christmas shopping spree with her mother-in-law yesterday . . . Her blonde hair was dark above a square Toilee Pier eye and she chatted in French with Mrs. Wilson about the wool socks she was purchasing . . .

The unexpected and quite serious illness of Brewster Stetson of Cambridge caused the postponement of his marriage to Rhoda Belknap last Saturday . . . He is now recovering slowly, and plans for a new wedding date are still a bit indefinite pending his complete return to health . . .

Bridge

Jesuit Guild Benefits

On Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock, the Jesuit Sunday Guild will sponsor a Quilt, Categorical Bridge and Whist event at the Copley Plaza in the interests of Jesuit Seminaries and Missions.

Rev. John A. Madden, S. J., leads the event in bridge, with Dr. Mary Moore Beatty as guest chairman. Assisting in the Regatta I. and Katherine I. Dineen, Mary Culhane, Mary R. Larrick, Rosemary Givens, Margaret Mills, and Mary E. and Winifred McLaughlin, Catherine DeBoson.

Mrs. Michael J. Fay, Mrs. Jeremiah L. Murphy, Mrs. Bernard J. Killion, Mrs. B. J. A'Hearn, Mrs. Thomas J. Monahan, Mrs. Leo R. McDonnell, Mrs. John Duffy, Mrs. Charles Fox and Mrs. Catherine Tierney are also assisting.

A mission exhibit of unusual interest is being prepared under the direction of Brother Thomas J. Howarth, S. J., the Misses Margaret L. Sullivan and Marguerite Gearin.

Among the sponsors are Hon. David I. Walsh, Mrs. Edward C. Donnelly, Mrs. Alvan T. Fuller, Mrs. Margaret Harrington, Catholic Guild for the Blind, Mrs. Nicholas J. King, Mrs. Frederick A. Gundon, Mrs. Charles E. Crowley, Naomi and Gertrude Furze. Tickets are available at the St. Andrews House, 300 Newbury st., or through any of the committee members.

KATHARINE GRAY IN SONG RECITAL

Miss Katharine Cunningham Gray, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Cunningham Gray of Commonwealth ave., will give a song recital in the lecture hall of the Boston Public Library this coming Sunday evening. She will be accompanied by Ford Montgomery, a group of French, Norwegian, Spanish, and English songs. Mr. Montgomery will play a group of piano solos.

Society Notes

Mrs. Charles A. Rheault of Westwood and Miss Gertrude Hamilton of Boston are sojourning at the Ambassador Hotel in New York. Mr. and Mrs. Eveleigh Todd of South Lincoln and Mr. and Mrs. Sullivan Sargent of Needham are spending a few days at the Biltmore Hotel in New York.

BLONDIE

GLADYS, too, had visited him, but only once. On that occasion Dick had told her about Brinda. "I can't figure Gladys," he said, in describing the scene afterward to Brinda.

"She doesn't love me, and she doesn't want to marry me. She left me in no doubt of that. But she doesn't want to break our engagement publicly. Not just now, anyway. Can you make anything of it?"

Brinda couldn't. But she didn't regard it as especially important. Certainly, it was something that could wait until Dick was well again.

Then Gladys made a second visit and, when Brinda arrived later, Dick looked at her darkly and said, "Gladys says you're still going to Vaslav's. Is that right?"

"Why, yes," said Brinda. "I'm rehearsing for the ballet—the one for the benefit of the evacuees."

Dick frowned.

"I'd rather you didn't, Brinda. Of course, I've no right to tell you what to do. But—well, I suppose I'm jealous."

Brinda couldn't help saying it: "On my account or Glad's, Dick?"

"What? Why, Glad doesn't care anything about Vaslav. He's a sort of high-class flunkey for her; she treats him like dirt. But you—well, I rather don't like the idea you and the Prince hit it off from the start. When you were dancing with him, I mean, at that restaurant."

"Thanks," said Brinda, in a thin voice. "In other words, you think I'm more susceptible than Glad's—easier to get, to put it rudely."

"Oh, come now!" Dick exclaimed, "I don't mean that. Honestly, darling, you don't believe..."

It was the first quarrel. They made it up immediately, with Dick appropriately apologetic and humble. Nothing more was said at the time about Brinda's going to Vaslav's. But it left a bruise none the less, and one that sometimes made Brinda sorry she had not adhered to her original resolution.

A NEW BLOW

Another shock was preparing. On leaving the hospital, Dick was to have gone to the home of a school friend at Harwich to recuperate. Just before being discharged, he told Brinda he was going to Lord Mountwyn's instead.

"I don't enjoy the prospect," he added, "but His Lordship has an interest in my condition, after all, and I can't very well refuse him. Besides, dear, it's important I get to work again right away."

At his request, Brinda brought him the plans she had guarded so carefully.

"I wish you were going anywhere else, Dick," she said. "Not because of Gladys, but... well, I sometimes wonder about Lord Mountwyn."

"Oh, he's sound enough," answered Dick, with no conviction in his voice, his jaw set in a stubborn line. "Anyway, you do as you please. Vaslav, you do as you please."

Brinda let it rest there. But, if Vaslav had known that, night might have been his opportunity. Instead, he chose the occasion to make some radical changes in the plans Brinda had already formed.

She was so furious, she almost walked out on the entire ballet.

Principal Characters in Today's Chapter

BRINDA, daughter of Mata Hari, notorious World War spy.

DICK, Brinda's childhood sweetheart whom she still loves.

WALKER, treacherous and suspicious housekeeper in Brinda's home.

SIR JOHN, Brinda's guardian and British Intelligence chief.

VASLAV, mysterious Russian nobleman who may be a Nazi agent.

But some instinct restrained her. So she practiced the new steps—not only at the studio, but after she reached home before her pier-glass.

The better to remember the new changes, she borrowed Sir John's chessboard, and worked them out with a real queen. As she made each move, she noted it in the customary code used in registering chess moves.

Then, unable to think of anything but Dick, she crumpled the paper and tossed it in a wastebasket.

There, with an exclamation of malignant triumph, the housekeeper Walker found it the following morning. She took it directly to Sir John.

"You say you found this in my neice's waste-basket?" asked Sir John.

"That I did," declared the housekeeper, "and if it ain't one of them secret ciphers I'll be surprised. What's more, she had a little tin box hid in that jewel case of hers for a time—only it's gone now. And she comes in all hours of night lately."

Sir John glanced at the notes, and sighed.

There are only some chess notes, Walker. I often make ones like them myself. I'm sorry, my good woman, but I'm afraid something is affecting your mind. I suggest you look for another place.

NO SPIES ALLOWED

"You mean I'm asked?"

"I can't have spies in my house!" snapped Sir John.

Walker laughed unpleasantly. "Can't have spies! In this house! That's a good 'un. Well, if you ain't got one named Brinda I miss with—not more than five or six words."

"How long will it take?"

"Perhaps a day; perhaps longer."

"Drop everything else until you've solved it."

As the agent left, Sir John slumped in his chair.

"Well," he said bitterly addressing space, "MacDonald wins! It's hereditary that tells the story. Maybe she's a true daughter of Mata Hari, after all!"

But he couldn't leave it at that. He began pacing the long room...

Brinda! Little Brinda! Somehow, he couldn't believe it. Should he call her in and invite her to explain? No, that wouldn't do. If she were a spy—or if some clever Fifth Columnist was using her as one—it would merely give them warning.

SIR JOHN ACTS

What was it the housekeeper had said? "Staying out all hours." Then he remembered—that benefit ballet for evacuees. A decent enough cause. And perfectly respectable—Prince Vaslav was running it...

Vaslav.

"I wonder"—He left the thought unfinished. But, a little later, on reaching his office, he called in a confidential aide and asked for Prince Vaslav's file.

"We have none," said the aide, looking shocked. "Don't you know?"

He whispered the rest.

"I'm aware of that," declared Sanderson crisply. "However, I'm not interested in his royal connections or in who vouched for him. I'm afraid there's been too much of that in this country—as well as across the Channel. If we've no file on this man, it's time we started one. I shall expect you to have better information when I ask again."

"Yes, sir," said the aide. "I shall, sir." His voice sounded as though he meant it.

Will Brinda be able to free herself from the net of suspicion that is being drawn about her? Be sure to read the exciting chapter of "Mata Hari's Daughter" in tomorrow's American.

Listen, World!

THAT was a smart line the Chicago University Forum tossed over the air the other day. One of the debaters was arguing for strict neutrality, saying that America should do nothing, absolutely nothing, in the present European crisis. Whereupon another debater cried:

"But that's just the point; you can't do nothing! No matter what program you follow, you're bound to take a stand. Doing nothing puts you on the spot just as much as doing something. For 'doing nothing' INS 'doing something'!"

"DOING NOTHING IS DOING SOMETHING"—there's a five-word blitzkrieg that's guaranteed to raise Cain with all forms of human cowardice and complacency. And it's particularly tough on the Fence-Straddlers and Pussyfooters who pride themselves on keeping out of unpleasant situations.

FOR THERE'S NO SUCH THING AS "PLAYING SAFE." No matter what program you follow, you're in the picture for better or worse and will have to face the consequences.

THE SAME RULE works in every department of our lives—village politics, neighborhood feuds, family brawls, wherever justice and decency are involved.

You don't like being involved.

Of course you don't. You hate fuss and discomfort and unwelcome responsibility. Who doesn't! And you're sure there "oughta be a law" against showing all these terrible war pictures, against printing all these stories about murder, gangsters and bombing raids.

In short, you want to keep sin and sorrow and sordidness out of your home—out of your and your children's lives.

Nice notion! But it can't be done. If you try to keep the ugly truth there is MISERY.

AGAINST THEM AND LET THE WORLD KNOW CLEARLY ON WHICH SIDE YOU STAND.

For, if there is misery, you're responsible for that misery. This is YOUR WORLD... YOUR civilization. Willy-nilly, you have inherited it with all its banes and blessings. And you're plenty willing to accept those blessings.

STOP being chicken-hearted. Face and fight the evil that still goes with the good, as your fathers did before you.

They wouldn't let themselves be choosy. They suffered endless hardship, shock and sacrifice that you might have a better break...

and each generation in its turn, accepts that debt and obligation.

So what? Are YOU, alone, going to take a run-out powder?

HOW TO GO TO SLEEP

Try holding eye lids wide open. You just can't. They soon become heavy and you fall asleep. Is your sleep disturbed by irregular kidneys? Getting up nights is normal. When kidney elimination needs help, you may also notice frequent urination, burning or off-color passage. Drink lots of soft water. Take a kidney laxer. Ask your druggist for BUCKETS. Your size back in 24 hours if not pleased. For sale in all drug stores.

Love And Marriage Nationality Problem

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

Our ages are 21 and 19. I am partly of her nationality and of another race. This is our difficulty. Her father wants her to marry a man of their race, and for that reason has forbidden us to go together.

Her mother has been very kind to us, and has tried to talk her husband over, but to no avail. She is not opposed to our marriage. We did separate temporarily, but when we couldn't stand it any longer I called her on the phone. I never see her except in the company of her sister, and then we meet on street corners.

UNPOPULAR

If you follow my column, you know what I think about such intolerance of other races as displayed by your girl's father who is making his home in this country. I often wonder why people like that, who believe in the superiority of their race, don't stay in the mother country. Most of them come here to make money and are never really loyal to the democratic form of government, while enjoying its blessings and the prosperity it gives.

The only objection I can see to your marriage is the tender ages of both of you. Bide your time, and if you feel the same about each other in a year or two, go ahead and get married.

She's 18, Parents Ban Boy Friends

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I am a girl past 18. My parents are quite strict and do not let me bring any boy friend to the house or to go out with them. I choose my friends wisely and know how to take care of myself, but my parents won't give me credit for this.

I graduate from high school next February and have a job on Saturdays. I think I'm old enough to go out like other girls. Please tell me what to do. When the girls talk about their dates, I must always keep silent.

DESPERATE

If you follow my column you must know that I urge parents with all the vehemence as my command to let their daughters have girl and boy friends. It's so much wiser than to try and bring up a girl as if she were on a desert island and put her temptation in her way to sneak out on the sly.

To my way of thinking, sensible parents encourage girls to invite their friends of both sexes to their homes. They can then decide which are desirable and which are undesirable, and with a little finesse can weed out the latter. Many wretched marriages are made by girls who were kept too strictly.

Candy-Making Time Is Here

By MARTHA LEE

Holiday time is candy-making time! And candy-making generally includes fudge, divinity, panocha, fondant and various stuffed fruits. They are all popular sweets and ideal for the Christmas stockings and gift boxes.

It is not nearly as difficult as it seems to make good candy at home, professional looking candy, that is delicious and wholesome for children and adults alike. Prove to yourself that you can make good candy by trying some of these recipes.

CHOCOLATE FUDGE

2 cups sugar
1/2 tsp. salt
2 squares bitter chocolate
1 cup irradiated evaporated milk
2 tbsp. butter
1/2 tsp. vanilla extract
1/2 cup pecans

Cook sugar, salt, shaved chocolate and milk slowly until sugar dissolves, then rapidly to soft ball stage (235 deg. F.), stirring constantly. Remove from heat. Cool and add butter and vanilla. Beat until crystalline and turn into a buttered pan. Or knead until soft and plastic, and press into buttered pan to 1/4 inch thickness. Cut into squares. Makes 1 1/2 pounds.

ORANGE COCONUT FUDGE

2 cups sugar
1 cup irradiated evaporated milk
1/2 tsp. salt
1/2 cup coconut
Grated rind of 1 orange (2 tsp.)
2 tbsp. butter

Boil sugar, milk and salt to soft ball stage (235 deg. F.). Remove from heat and cool. Spread orange rind and a layer of coconut in bottom of buttered pan. Add butter and remainder of coconut to candy and beat until mixture begins to stiffen. Pour into pan over coconut and orange rind. Cut into squares. The coconut and orange rind form a very pretty topping when the candy is turned upside down. Makes 1 1/2 pounds.

PANOCHA

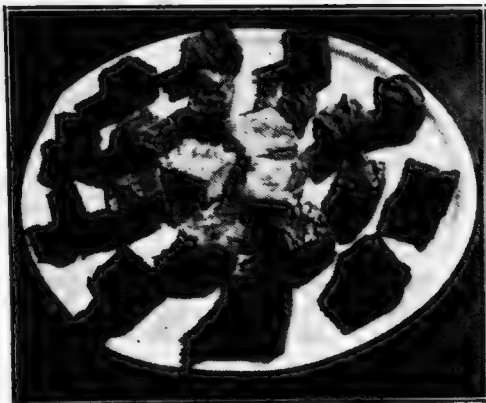

2 1/2 cups brown sugar
Few grains of salt
1/2 cup water
1 lbep. corn syrup
1 tsp. butter
1/2 cup irradiated evaporated milk
2-3 cup chopped nuts
1 tsp. vanilla extract

Boil first 5 ingredients to a thick syrup. Add milk slowly so that mixture does not stop boiling. Stirring constantly, cook to soft ball stage (237 deg. F.). When candy is cool, add nuts and vanilla, and beat vigorously until stiff. If candy is turned into buttered pan at first sign of stiffening, it spreads easily and has a glossy rough surface. If it hardens before it is turned out, knead until smooth and press out into the pan. Cut into squares. Two-thirds cup chopped dates, figs or raisins, or 1/2 cup finely chopped candied ginger may be added instead of nuts. Makes 1 1/2 pounds.

WATER FONDANT

2 cups granulated sugar
1 cup water
1 lbep. light corn syrup
Few grains salt

Fut these ingredients into a smooth, straight-sided saucupan. Place over a slow fire and stir until CANDY PLAYS an important role in holiday festivities. Delicious home-made candy is liked by all and makes a good Christmas gift and stocking filler.

the sugar is dissolved. When the syrup begins to boil, remove the spoon and cook quickly, without stirring, until it will form a soft ball when a little is dropped into a cup of cold water, or until a temperature of 240 deg. F. has been reached. At this point pour the syrup quickly onto a cold, wet platter or marble slab. Sprinkle with cold water to help it cool quickly. (This may be done by dipping a small pastry brush into water and shaking it over the surface of the cooling syrup.) Do not move the platter while the syrup is cooling, as moving may change the candy's condition.

STUFFED FRUITS

Select large prunes, steam for a few minutes over hot water then cool and remove stones. Dried figs must also be steamed, but preserved figs are moist enough to use as they are. Remove pits from dates, cut a small opening in candied cherries and in large seeded raisins if you wish to stuff them. Fill centers with fondant. For variety, use fondant to which chopped candied fruit and nuts have been added.

Stork Shower Thanks

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

I have just been fortunate enough to be on the receiving end of a stork shower. Now I would like to know if I should write each guest a note of thanks or just wait a few weeks and send a birth announcement. The guests were mostly relatives and a few close friends.

W. W.

To receive a note of thanks for a gift (even when we have been thanked verbally) is so heart-warming to one who has given special thought and care in choosing the gift that I do urge you to write individual notes of thanks. Relatives and a few close friends would be sure, be especially touched by your graciousness. Your notes needn't be long—two or three sentences, perhaps—but they will charmingly show your appreciation.

Serve Coffee

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

My niece is to be married soon, and there is to be a small reception at her home in the afternoon after the ceremony. Would it be proper to serve coffee and cakes, rather than fruit punch and cakes? Several of my friends tell me that fruit punch would be better to serve than coffee. I would be grateful if you would settle this question for me.

B. F.

If it is a choice of serving only coffee or only fruit punch, I should, if I were you, serve coffee. During the winter months, almost everyone prefers a cup of hot coffee in the late afternoon.

You Can Be Beautiful

Lasting 'Skin Perfume' Unique in Fragrant Lures

By ARLINE GOULD

PERHAPS all you care about, when buying a perfumed cologne is the ultimate effect . . . the fact that your pink skin will waft a delicious fragrance . . . which is the subtlest, most effective way of using the wiles of a perfume.

But if you're interested in the how, wherefore and the money angle . . . you're going to be impressed by a "skin perfume" which has a story all its own . . . and, we might add, a terrific amount of allure, all its own too!

It's neither cologne nor perfume . . . it's made of the finest imported perfume oils, is to be used all over little you, like a cologne, and yet compared to cologne is triple strength, and probably far outlasts one. For $1 you may have a generous flask with its own atomizer, all done up in fuchsias and gold!

In regular cologne, the perfume oils are super-imposed over a synthetic cologne oil . . . and the base has to fade after you've applied it, before the perfume fragrance comes into its own. Because there are just perfume oils (with many of them the costliest flower essences) in this skin perfumer, you are aware of the exquisite fragrance right away . . . and for hours and hours afterward.

They say that compared to other toilet waters or medium strength perfumes of equal quality and the same number of ounces, this very special skin perfume is conservatively estimated to be a $3 value!

If you adore gardenia, try some of the skin perfume gardenia . . . its creators swear it is one of the truest made. We also find "rose" very true, and honeysuckle marvelously pungent; then there is a carnation, which is an exquisite blend instead of a single-flower odor; a white and purple lilac fragrance that everyone loves, and one super-otic scent for the very sophisticated.

If you'd like to learn all about this wonderfully lasting skin perfume, something unique in fragrant lures, phone Arline Gould, E.Berry 4000, week-days except Saturday, or write, care of the Boston American, inclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

DON'T GET A LOAN

UNTIL YOU READ THIS TABLE

You can borrow $100 if you can pay back $6.41 a month and 2% per month on that part of a balance in excess of $100 is less than the maximum permitted by the Small Loan Law and is the same to everyone.

Simple to borrow

We require no salary or wage assignment, no stocks or bonds. Loans are made on furniture, car, or note. No credit inquiries made of friends or relatives. And you don't have to ask friends or fellow-workers to sign the papers with you.

You can get a personal loan of $20 to $300 at Household Finance at rates substantially below the lawful maximum—if you can repay in small monthly installments.

Payments to fit your purse
You may choose the most convenient repayment plan from the table below. Suppose that you need $100 and you can readily repay $9.75 a month. Your installments will repay a $100 loan in full in twelve months. Or, if you wish smaller payments, as little as $6.41 a month for twenty months will also repay a $100 loan.

See the sample loans and payment plans in the table. (Loans also made in other amounts and for other periods.) Payments in the table repay everything. Household's rate of 2 1/2% per month on that part of a balance not exceeding $100.

Arkansas A. & M.'s Clown Team Asks Boston Game

AS A FAIR SPECIMEN OF THE GOOFY, mail order salesmanship which many an unknown silo college is employing to sell itself to the public through football, read the following letter addressed to one of Boston's better pigskin institutions (unnamed by request). The missive, typed under a multi-colored letterhead comes from the athletic director of Arkansas A. & M. of Monticello, Ark., and reads:

"Sir—I will appreciate your consideration of Arkansas A. & M. for a place on your home football schedule . . . Our team is not a strong one . . . We play an extremely unorthodox type of football with a great deal of forward and lateral passing . . . Although we win very seldom and are often defeated by large scores, we have been able to hold the interest of fans everywhere throughout the country. It has and will be our policy to make any game that we schedule as desirable and advantageous to our hosts as it will be to us in carrying out our rather peculiar idea of football. (Signed Stewart A. Ferguson, Director of Athletics.)"

AUSTEN LAKE

Fergie's "peculiar" idea is this: He doesn't care whether his team wins! His boys are encouraged to swap a touchdown for a laugh. If an Ark. A. & M. kid thinks up some hunk of nonsensical hoopla on the field it's his privilege to execute the gag forthwith. They heave, according to Fergie's publicity blurb, about "seven passes to every running play." They dress in regalia which would dazzle a circus lady. The boys coach themselves, show up to practice or don't show up and play for fun. Object, says Fergie, is the educational advantage of travel, human contacts and social blandishments. Fancy that!

Is Football Fun?

THERE'S NOTHING PERNICIOUS in this. I'd like to see Fergie's football experiment. For, sad to say, high pressure college football in the main is not meriment for the players. Fun to look forward to, fun to look back on, but a pretty stiff seasonal drudge while it's going on. I've taken testimony from a lot of lads to that effect.

Says the Ark's publicity handout, quoting a Cleveland sports page, "The Marx brothers of football, the Arkansas A. & M.'s did everything but saw a woman in half. They lost 49 to 7 and had the crowd rolling in the aisles."

Here is a fair sample of the go-get-'em correspondence which clutters the files of every metropolitan college—curious attempts of hay-mow colleges to lift themselves from obscurity by using football as a boot-strap. It takes place with the one which B. U. received a season or so ago from Hardin-Simmons University of Abilene, Texas, which offered a football roster, complete with a brass band in hair pants and some ha-cha lady songbirds, and wound up, "I am sure a $1000 guarantee does not scare you off. We can have a one year contract and come up there and not expect you to come to Texas—a blatant effort to hook B. U. for a guarantee that would flatten its athletic treasury and at the same time duck any obligation to pay off the visitation a year later."

FOUR IVY ENDS RATED AHEAD OF GOODREAU ON AP ALL-EAST TEAMS

By HERB BARKER

Boston College, unofficial champion of the East, places three men on the All-Eastern football team compiled today by the Associated Press. Drawn from the Boston array which will face Tennessee in the Sugar Bowl New Year's Day are Charlie O'Rourke, brilliant back; Chet Gladchuk, huge center, and George Kerr, scholarly guard.

L. MACKINNEY, HARVARD

ALAN BARTHOLEMAY, YALE

They Beat Out Goodreault for End Jobs

O'Rourke's backfield mates on the mythical team are Walt Matuszczak, Cornell quarterback; Francis Xavier Reagan, sensational Penn star, and line-cracking George Kracum of Pitt.

With Gladchuk and Kerr in the line are Len MacKinney of Harvard and Alan Bartholemey of Yale at the ends; Nick Drahos of Cornell and Joe Ungerer of Fordham at the tackles, and Agostino Lio, Georgetown veteran, teaming up with Kerr at guard.

REAGAN THE ACE

O'Rourke's backfield mates on the mythical team are Walt Matuszczak, Cornell quarterback; Francis Xavier Reagan, sensational Penn star, and line-cracking George Kracum of Pitt.

With Gladchuk and Kerr in the line are Len MacKinney of Harvard and Alan Bartholemey of Yale at the ends; Nick Drahos of Cornell and Joe Ungerer of Fordham at the tackles, and Agostino Lio, Georgetown veteran, teaming up with Kerr at guard.

Of these, all are seniors except MacKinney and Bartholemey, who are juniors. Drahos and Lio are the only repeaters from the All-Star team of 1939.

The 1940 team averages 202 pounds in the line and 155 in the backfield, where O'Rourke's 153 pounds cut sharply into the average.

Reagan's place on the team was secure beyond any challenge for the great Penn triple threat stood out head and shoulders beyond any eastern rival for all-around value.

Only in the Michigan game was he stopped cold, and in that test Penn's line was clearly outplayed.

HY-ENDS ON 1ST TEAM

BUT the other three backfield nominees all had to withstand real competition. Matuszczak, husky blocker and placekicker for Cornell, barely beat out another great blocker, Boston College's Henry Toczykowski.

O'Rourke, a standout in Boston's vital game with Georgetown when Georgetown's 25-game unbeaten streak was broken, found a half dozen serious challengers on his heels, among them Andy Tomasio of Temple, Hal McCullough of Cornell, Edna of Princeton, and Lew Eschmunt of Fordham. Bill Bisk of Navy and Henry Mazur of Army.

Kracum beat out such other full-backs as Steve Filipowicz, Georgetown sophomore; Mel Landenberg of Cornell; Jim Castiglia of Georgetown and Walter Zirlinsky of Lafayette.

Competition over the end posts was sharp all the way. Bartholemey, a fine pass catcher and great defensive player, was Yale's most consistent player all season.

MacKinney, ho did most of Harvard's kicking, performed brilliantly, particularly in the closing stages of the season when Harvard began to move.

But there edge was small over such rivals as Alva Kelley of Cornell, Hugh Barber and Joe Siegal of Columbia, Vince Denney and Jim Lansing of Fordham and Lew Warner of Penn.

INJURIES HURT GENE

One of the East's finest wingmen, Gene Goodreault of Boston College, drops back among the honorable mentions because injuries suffered in the Georgetown game kept him out of the Eagles' important games with Auburn and Holy Cross.

The toughest choice of the lot was at center, where the East had a banner crop including the 242-pound Gladchuk, Leon Gajewski of Penn State, Don Snavely of Columbia, Lou de Filippio of Fordham, Ray Erick of Penn and Frank Finnegan of Cornell.

Few could challenge Kerr and Lio at the guard positions, and Drahos and Ungerer were equal standouts at the tackles, where the field was limited to an extraordinary degree.

HORNETS MAINTAIN FAST PACE

By Associated Press

When the Pittsburgh Hornets swarmed all over the Hershey Bears last week, after Coach Larry Aurie had given them a verbal going over of a lot of talks thought the "lift" was only temporary.

Apparently Aurie—and the Hornets—weren't fooling, however. Since then the Hornets have picked up three more victories in a row, including a 5-4 overtime decision over Springfield last night, and today are one game behind the Cleveland Barons, Western division pacesetters of the American Hockey League.

COMES FROM BEHIND

In turning back Springfield, Pittsburgh had to overcome a 3-1 margin, which the Indians, eastern division leaders, grabbed in the first period.

Neither side scored during the middle session, but before the third period had reached the three-minute mark, Larry Archambault tallied twice for the Hornets to tie up the game.

Ray Steele gave Pittsburgh the lead at 15:47 but Springfield's Larry Thibault sent the game into overtime, scoring with less than a minute left to play. Archambault flipped the puck to Hellyer, who scored the winning goal at 2:32 of the extra session.

The New Haven Eagles, runners-up to Springfield in the eastern group, capitalized on the Indians' defeat by shutting out Indianapolis, 3-0, in the only other game last night.

SOLO DASH HELPS

Speedy George Mantha put the Eagles out in front in the sixth minute of the opening stanza on a spectacular solo dash. Marcel Tremblay and Gus Mancuso notched the other pair late in the third period. The victory boosted New Haven to within five points of Springfield, and put the Eagles three points ahead of the third place Philadelphia Ramblers.

Tonight New Haven plays at Buffalo, Springfield journeys to Hershey and Providence entertains Indianapolis.

Wesleyan Names Fesler Football Coach for '41

MIDDLETOWN, Conn., Dec. 5 (AP)—Wesley E. (Wes) Fesler, former All-American end at Ohio State, is today head football coach at Wesleyan University. He will assume his new duties in March.

Fesler, who has had coaching experience at his alma mater, where he was a football, basketball and baseball star, and at Harvard since 1934 as assistant football and head basketball tutor, succeeds Jack L. Blott, former Michigan ace, who resigned to take a position in private industry.

The new Wesleyan mentor, whose appointment was announced by Athletic Director Harold S. Wood, was born in Youngstown, O., on June 29, 1908, prepared for college at Youngstown South High and was graduated from Ohio State University in 1931. He won All-American rating in football as a lineman in 1929 and 1930.

Although negotiations between Fesler and Wesleyan have been going on for several months, they had to await final approval from the university's academic council.

After getting his degree, Fesler, a Phi Beta Kappa, joined the Ohio State athletic staff as varsity end coach and freshman basketball tutor in 1931, where he remained until 1934, when Eddie Casey hired him for Harvard football. He also became head basketball mentor the same year and Eastern court critics credit him with rejuvenating the Crimson basketball.

Mr. BOSTON

By JACK CONWAY

THE STORIES TO the effect Frank Leahy has received several offers for college coaching jobs as a result of his brilliant showing at Boston College this season isn't just idle talk . . . Leahy has proved a miracle coach and his services are in demand.

FRANK LEAHY

I do not believe Boston College will make the same mistake with Leahy that Holy Cross did with Dr. Eddie Anderson . . . Dr. Anderson's record at Holy Cross and at Iowa prove his right to be classed as a great coach . . . Dr. Anderson believed he was entitled to more money than he was receiving at the Worcester college . . . It was felt at the time that Dr. Anderson would not give up his Holy Cross berth on account of the fact he was connected with the Veterans' Bureau in Boston, and also had a private practice.

Dr. Anderson later told me he would have preferred remaining at Holy Cross, but that the Iowa offer for his services was too attractive for him to turn down . . . I know that Frank Leahy would also rather coach Boston College at football than any other team . . . He likes his associations at Boston College, while he is in enthusiastic about his future plans for the Eagles.

When Leahy first came to Boston it was his first job as a head football coach . . . He was given a contract in line with his standing at that time . . . Since, Leahy has proved he is one of the best college football coaches in the country . . . He has given Boston College its greatest football team, and due to his efforts the athletic treasury at Newton has been enriched by thousands of dollars . . . The Sugar Bowl excursion will bring $75,000 more out of which there will be expenses of about $20,000.

If my size-up of Frank Leahy is correct, he will not ask for any additional money . . . His type feels in such cases it is the duty of the athletic department to make a concrete offer . . . That is how Dr. Eddie Anderson felt, and when he did not receive what he thought was the proper consideration he signed with Iowa.

I believe the excitement of a thrilling season and the effort to get a Sugar Bowl game has probably delayed the Boston College athletic department from adjusting its future relationships with Leahy . . . Boston College certainly wishes to see that Leahy shares in the new football standing he has helped secure for the soaring Eagles.

Max Baer as an Actor

MAX BAER, in "Hi-Ya, Gentlemen!" at the Colonial Theater shows more ability before the footlights than any boxer to ever go on the stage. Even "Gentleman" Jim Corbett was not as accomplished an actor as Baer.

Baer enters into the spirit of the show, and judging by his actions and appearance he has as many laughs as the audience.

Tommy Maren says that before the opening night performance Baer was as nervous as a boxer about to engage in his first main bout. Max was anxious to make good.

Once the show was underway, Baer was in complete command of the situation. He gave his lines in a clear, steady voice, while he was the natural comedian.

Baer always had a flair for the stage. When he carried his theatrical ideas in the training camp and into the ring he frequently fell into the ill graces of boxing commissioners.

Corbett is the only other former champion who ever displayed any ability as an actor. Even John L. Sullivan, who made many theatrical appearances, was not much of an actor. Sullivan received engagements because of his great personal popularity.

Sullivan always ended his act by saying,

"I am yours truly, John L. Sullivan, an American." Baer is surrounded by an exceptionally strong cast. It is a bright, fast stepping comedy with enough touches of racing, bookmaking and athletics to appeal to sports fans as well as to those persons who desire the best in acting.

Bill Cronin and Hingham High Eleven

BILL CRONIN did not permit a series of defeats suffered by the Hingham High eleven to get him down. Bill kept up team morale and was in there trying to make a good showing with his club even in the Weymouth game.

The score of 45 to 0 in favor of Weymouth showed that it is asking too much for Hingham to play in a Class C league. Hingham would do better if it played in Class D with teams like Scituate, Cohasset and Marshfield.

Hingham has not a sufficient number of candidates for its eleven to hope to play on an equal plane with teams like Weymouth. As a matter of fact, Weymouth would probably beat most of the Class B and Class A teams.

If Hingham were to enter Class D, the players would not have to go against such odds as they do now. The spectators would also witness more interesting competition.

Cronin is a capable coach, and has the respect of his players and all persons who know him. Bill would do better if his team was dropped into the class where it belongs.

Vols 5-9 Over Eagles in Bowl Grid Classic

By Associated Press

Scoparade: Billy Herman, Arkie Vaughn and Eddie Miller are being tagged as the next big shots to figure in deals at Atlanta . . . What is the big holdback in the serving up of the second and bigger half of G-man Atherton's report on the Pacific Coast Conference housecleaning?

Dick Harlow (who saw the Vols in the bowl) has served warning: On Boston College it will be up against the toughest team it ever faced in Tennessee . . . Incidentally, opening Broadway prices make Tennessee 5-9 over the Eagles and Stanford 5-9 over Nebraska.

ATLANTA SPECIAL

Hark, hark, the dogs do bark, As misery and pain fill the town, For a baseball meet is tough on feet

From hours of standing around; So let us toast, with brimming cups, Atlanta's "week of aching pups."

Pitcher Dizzy Trout of the Tigers expects to wear contact glasses next season . . . If Judge Landis doesn't announce he intends to step out of the picture, in tonight's speech, Clark Griffith is expected to lead a move to renew his contract for another five years . . . Only 360 combinations—a $10 pastebord that gets you to all the events on the mid-winter sports program—are left for Sugar Bowl fans.

Well, Mr. Ken Giffard of Charlotte, N. C., sends another of these screwy All-American—Ends: Leather of College and Lake of Florida; tackle: Leche of Yale and Shipp of Navy; guards, Mudd of Mississippi and Mixture of Duke; center, Plaines of Texas; quarterback, Colt of Kentucky; halfbacks, Orange of California and Gunn of Army; fullback, Sult of Utah . . . (P. S.: Season on these teams closes after Saturday's games).

CHITTER CHATTER

Andre Lenglet, the French heavyweight who fought here some years ago, lost part of a foot in the war . . . Christy Walsh, who made a reputation on Broadway first as manager of Babe Ruth, then as sports director of the World's Fair, will quit the big town and go into business in Los Angeles.

Good luck to Ben Wahrman, who has succeeded John Oliver as sports editor of the Richmond (Va.) News-Leader . . . No fewer than four former football managers stepped over on their way to the Atlanta baseball meeting to see their old boss, Joe Engel. (Such popularity must be deserved, eh, Joe?) L. C. "Cricket" Ball, Arkansas secretary of state, recently made his 21st consecutive pep talk at his 21st consecutive Arkansas U. homecoming rally.

TODAY'S GUEST STAR

Elliott Chase, Lake Charles, (La.): "Don't think the North has any monopoly on this week-end football recklessness . . . Down here the boozers offer such a varied assortment of those football 'pool' cards, you can select one to harmonize with the shirt you lose."

One of the applicants for Doc Prethro's job with the Phillies was a Dartmouth college student who asserted he's take the job for experience only.

Albany Winners To Box in Boston

ALBANY, N. Y., Dec. 5 (AP)—Eight amateur boxers, winners in the Albany Times-Union annual diamond belt tournament, will participate in the all-eastern finale at Boston, Dec. 23.

Winners last night include 112-pound class, Doug McDonald, Glens Falls; 118, Joe Mario, Albany; 126, Tom Rotolo, Rome; 135, Fred Bala, Amsterdam; 147, Jim Rouse, Albany; 160, Joe Carter, Rome; 175, Don La Due, Remsen; heavyweight, Al Read, Albany.

LOOKS LIKE FOXX. "Yes, and I hit like him, too," says Howard Thompson of Saugus, above. Thompson has qualified for the New England All-America finals which will be held Monday at Garden. Joe Louis will be there to look him over.

All-American Tilt Moves Into Garden

Joe Louis may possibly see his successor as world heavyweight champion in action when the final finals of the N. E. All-America amateur boxing championships are held at Boston Garden next Monday night.

The four heavyweights who will participate in this show, promoted jointly by the Boston Evening American-Daily Record and the Irish-American A. A., are the survivors of the four elimination tournaments, open to New England's best.

The talented quartet are: Howard Thompson, 194-pound Saugus ringer, who holds the Golden Gloves championship; Pat Devine of Cambridge, 188-pound coppersmith's apprentice, who used to be N. E. light heavy king; Bill Dupce, 19-year-old Cambridge architect, who weighs 200, and Esterino Cimino, 190-pounder from Providence, who was a Grade A football player at Providence Technical High School. They are the finest amateur twalmsmiths to be developed in New England since Tony Perry and Herbie Coman used to have at each other. But they won't be the whole show by any means.

The 126-pound class promises action of the first magnitude. In this class, Francis Leonard, last winter's New England and Eastern all-America bantamweight champion, will try to cop the feather title.

Leonard, a hard-hitting youngster, still is attending Coyle High in Taunton.

Opposed to him will be Jackie Heard, South End bell boy.

With thousands of amateur and professional teams in action, basketball games attract 90 million people annually. And that's tops in attendance.

AGGIES EXPECTED TO BE RAMS' FOE

DALLAS, Dec. 5 (INS)—Officials of the Cotton Bowl Ass'n today reported everything in readiness for the sale of tickets to the post-season game New Year's Day between Fordham and an as yet unnamed Southwest Conference team, almost certain to be Texas A. & M.

Dan D. Rogers, president of the association, announced a total of 45,597 tickets would be printed as soon as the name of the host team is officially established.

The Aggies are almost certain to get the nomination immediately after the Rice-S. M. U. game in Houston Saturday.

Either team has a chance to tie the Aggies for a slice of the conference championship.

The Aggies, beaten only in an upset game by Texas, have won over both teams. Aggie players already have voted to accept the Cotton Bowl bid if it is offered.

Ticket prices will range from $5.50 down to $2.20. Each team will receive 42½ per cent of the

"take," the remainder going to the state fair of Texas for rental of the Cotton Bowl.

Incidental expenses are to be paid from sale of radio rights. An oil company has already purchased the state rights to broadcast the game, Rogers said.

Boston Entry 'Brass Monkey' of Pocket Billiards

The World's Championship Pocket Billiards League, in its second year of existence, is staged in the same manner as organized baseball.

Players represent cities and the enthusiasm the league created in three cities last season, New York, Newark and Philadelphia, served the cue game as digitalis does the heart.

Andrew Ponzi, who came to Boston today to play two games at Shanley's Recreation, captured the crown from the other five contestants last year and is therefore the defending champion.

Joe Procita, Boston's representative, is considered the "Brass Monkey" of the cut game in that he is a slow starter but a very fast finisher lika-da-Monk. He figures among the most feared in the league which also includes players like Jimmy Caras, Philadelphia; Onofrio Lauri, Scranton; Johnny Irish, Syracuse; George Kelly, Newark; Erwin Rudolph, New York and Willie Mosconi also of New York.

TENNESSEE FAN UPSETS B. C. CALM

Boston College's Golden Eagles of the gridiron aren't having anything to do with a football this week but that doesn't prevent the Chestnut Hill "chesties" from thinking about the New Year's Day Bowl game which they'll play in New Orleans with a vaunted Tennessee Volunteer eleven.

Leahy Busy Man Despite Layoff

Head Coach Frank Leahy of Boston College is a busy man these days. Though his Golden Eagle griders aren't practicing this week the B. C. coach has his work cut out for him.

Today Leahy is in New York for a meeting with officials of the United States Rubber Co. with which he is associated. Tonight the Eagle mentor will be one of the featured speakers at the annual Colgate varsity "C" football dinner. He'll be back in Boston tomorrow morning and in the evening he'll address a gathering in North Adams. After that Leahy will devote his time to preparing plans for his practice sessions which will start again next week.

Bates Loses Coach To Military Service

LEWISTON, Me., Dec. 5 (AP)—Leslie "Buck" Spinks, varsity basketball coach at Bates College, has been ordered to report for military service Monday. Spinks has been a captain in the reserve since he was graduated from Alabama Polytechnic Institute at Auburn in 1926.

If he passes the physical examinations he will be sent to Camp Edwards, Falmouth, to be attached to the U. S. Field Artillery.

Gun Enthusiasts Advocate More Shooting Ranges

Of importance to rifle shooters interested in the William Randolph Hearst Citizen's Marksmanship Competition and the William Randolph Hearst Junior Rifle Trophy Competition is the rapid strides being taken by the New England Police Revolver League towards having cities and towns of New England lay aside plots of land for public shooting ranges, both pistol and rifle.

PLENTY SPACE FOR RANGES

The N. E. Police Revolver League points out that there are countless schools that have sufficient space for ranges, the grounds often idle. It points to countless other parks and recreational areas where ranges could be safely and cheaply constructed.

This noted organization would like to see such ranges built as a home defense measure and the officers of the club have volunteered to donate their services as instructors.

SEX NO BARRIER

President Robinson points out that shooting comes under the heading of both sport and preparation and that neither age or sex is a barrier. He makes mention of the heavy increase in marksmanship among girls and women of recent years and states that here is one sport in which the female can more than hold her own with the males.

Particular sentiment is being directed towards the ambitious program being mapped out by the N. E. Police Revolver League through the stimulus to shooting following the announcement of the William Randolph Hearst rifle championships which will highlight the New England indoor season.

WORONICZ UPSET

Henry "Hank" Woronicz, big blond left end from Brockton, was terribly upset when a gentleman who apparently had been reading too much about Tennessee remarked that he thought the Vols were good enough to trim Boston College by four or five touchdowns. The remark was dropped in—of all places—Dr. Frank Jones's rubbing room where the admirer of Tennessee was visiting.

Blond Henry tried to be polite in his own ballclub but after a moment of internal fuming he sputtered:

"Tennessee may have a great ball club, may have a great coach and obviously has a great record but don't get the idea that Boston College is going to be defeated by five touchdowns. No team will run up five touchdowns on Boston College. As a matter of fact don't bet that Boston College will lose that game."

Woronicz expressed the thoughts of his mates in ideal fashion.

Al Morro, rugged right tackle, when told that a gentleman had picked Tennessee by five touchdowns, said in a matter-of-fact tone:

"Are that that good? Five touchdowns! That's ridiculous! They won't defeat us by even one touchdown. Say, they won't defeat us by a point."

HAMPERED BY WEATHER

Previous to the dive overboard by the Tennessee roster the Boston College boys were enjoying the week of rest ordered by Head Coach Frank Leahy after the Holy Cross game. The visitor's admiration for Tennessee disturbed the Eagles' no end. Now they can't wait for New Year's and a look at the vaunted Volunteers.

Final Elimination At Salem Arena

The fourth and final elimination of the Eastern Hockey League boxing tournament at the North St. Arena, Salem, will be held Thursday night, Dec. 12. There are five classes—126-pound, 147, 160 and heavyweight, open, and a 147-pound novice division. Jack Murphy, 17 Arbutus pl., Lynn, is in charge of entries.

The tourney finals will be held Thursday, Dec. 26, and with some of New England's outstanding simon pures already qualified indications are that a capacity crowd will witness the bouts.

Harmon Remembers Mates

DETROIT, Dec. 5 (AP)—Tom Harmon, Michigan's All-America halfback, presented his team-mates and coaches with gold footballs last night "so that they may never forget the part they played in helping out '38."

"I've been given a lot of medals, but if it wasn't for all these other fellows I wouldn't be getting them," Harmon said. "I'd like to meet all those medals down into one place and divide it up among us, but since that's impossible, I'll try this."

Harmon's jersey number, 98, was retired this season.

The All-America halfback made his presentation at Detroit's annual University of Michigan Club football "bust" for the Wolverine grid team.

Tom Harmon Offered Two Movie Contracts

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Dec. 5 (INS)—Ann Arbor briefly after a swing through the radio and lecture circuit, Tom Harmon, the University of Michigan's famed All-America halfback, said today he has received two movie offers.

Both Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer and Warner Brothers have offered him contracts, he said. He added that he would confer with officials of both studios in the near future.

halls of the country. Centre College of Kentucky did it successfully in the early '20s and brought a collection of handpicked yokels in hill-billy hats, canvas pants and woodsmen's shirts who stirred the imagination of the nation by licking Harvard. They started a vogue!

During the succeeding years, while the glamour of the "Frying Colonels" was still fresh, Centre's enrollment swelled to such alarming proportions that the state legislature voted a quick appropriation to build dormitories and class halls. Only, when the boom collapsed, the student list melted away and left the buildings to the owls and chickens.

A few years ago Holy Cross scheduled a "fire-eater" with an uncharted college named New River from the mining regions of West Virginia, hoping to rest its regulars and polish its plays against a team of "human guinea pigs." Only when New River arrived, far from house-pets, they were a hairy set of snag-toothed Tarzans who rattled H. C. around for three-quarters and led 2-0 until the late moments of the game. And the toll in busted ribs, bruises and contusions cost the Purple its next objective contest.

Cinderella Still Lives

I RECALL THAT PENNSYLVANIA once entered into a tentative contract with a little dress-maker and pie-baking college named Yeager University of Dayton, O., discovering in the nick of time that the "graduate manager" was a downtown barber and the "University" had neither buildings, campus, nor faculty, except as they existed under the hat of the enterprising hair cutter, who hoped to recruit his varsity from the trainsheds and rolling mills of the vicinity.

Yet the Cinderella legend still lives. Didn't B. U. book Slippery Rock a couple of years back on the trust of exploiting the thousands of eagles which were being published annually about the little corn-shuck college which lies in the Never-never wilds of Pennsylvania and arrived at national prominence through its hilarious appellation?

St. Mary's of Oakland, Cal., sends out an annual flying circus which, for sparkles and motley would shame Ringling Brothers. Their shirts are red satin, raudily ornamented, their britches are green rayon, their stockings sky-blue and helmets painted with peppermint stripings. And they drew $6,000 at $3.30 a head at the Polo Grounds against Fordham.

Of such is the kingdom of college football as she is played among the pigskin pixies, where faculty managers are hunting goofier things to make their gales grow greater and the original cultural purpose is smothered under carnival trappings and the general makeup of a touring minstrel show. Just the same I'd like to see this Arkansas A. & M. come to Boston. A good, rib-busting, stomach laugh would do us football addicts some therapeutic good. I think brother Ferguson has something there.
